SEEK PERFECT SEASON . . .

Turkey May Wait For Cornhuskers

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

More than 54,000 football fans will leave their turkey dinners until late Thursday afternoon to watch Nebraska go after its first unbeaten season in 50 years.

And a Husker victory over Oklahoma in the 12:45 p.m. contest could mean many turkeys will be left in the ovens as the rabid, scarlet-clad NU boosters celebrate an all-winning season.

In addition to the 54,000 who will be munching on hot dogs at Memorial Stadium, millions more will be sneaking a peak between bites of pumkin pie as NBC telecasts the game nationally in color.

3-TD Favorite

Nebraska has been made a three-touchdown favorite to complete its first unbeaten season since the "Stiehm-Rollers" of coach Jumbo Stiehm romped over eight opponents in 1915.

But Husker coach Bob Devaney is not taking the Sooners lightly, pointing to last year's contest as an example of what can happen.

Nebraska also took a 9-0 record into the Oklahoma game a year ago at Norman, but came away with a 17-7 bruising from the Sooners who went into that game with a 4-3-1 record

Only 3-5

Oklahoma is only 3-5 this season and is not among the leaders in any Big Eight statistical category. The Sooners are fourth in rushing, sixth in passing and fifth in total offense.

Defensively, they are fourth in rushing, last in passing and fifth in total defense.

This has given Devaney no false feelings of superiority either. "Oklahoma State was even worse than that," he points out. "They were near the bottom in everything and look what they did to us." Devaney continues, remembering the slim 21-17 NU victory over the Cowboys.

Leader

Nebraska, meanwhile, is first in all conference statistics except passing offense and passing defense where they rank third and second respectively.

The Huskers can also accomplish a triple in national statistics against the Sooners. NU is first in rushing offense by a wide margin over Southern California and is first in scoring with a 33.3 average.

Their closest challenger in scoring is Arkansas, which wrapped up its regular season last week against Texas Tech with a 32.4 average.

Nebraska and Tulsa are waging a close battle for the total offense lead with Tulsa holding a 38-yard edge going into the final games.

Tulsa, with 3667 yards, face Colorado State Thursday afternoon.

Nebraska's Black Shirt defensive unit ranks seventh nationally in total defense.

Coaches Agree

Both coach Bob Devaney of Nebraska and Gomer Jones of Oklahoma agree that the Sooners should not be able to surprise the Huskers.

"I told our team when we started preparing for Oklahoma that if I had to do anything to get them mentally ready for this game, then they weren't the team I thought they were," Devaney says.

"Nebraska won't be off guard for this game." Jones says grimly. "They've got too much to play for. If they beat us, they can complete their first all-victorious season in 50 years and take a 10-0 record into their Orange Bowl game.

"The fact they'll be playing on national television will stimulate them. Also, they'll be after revenge for our having upset them 17-7 last year. I wish that one could have been on national television but it wasn't."

Coaches' Capsule

Nebraska's Bob Devaney—"It appears that Oklahoma is at full strength. They are a team that we have always had a great deal of respect for and that we have always had trouble with in the past. It shapes up as a real tough game for us."

Oklahoma's Gomer Jones—"We all know Nebraska is a fine team with a chance for their first unbeaten season since 1915 so they will be ready. Last year we were fortunate to play our best game against them, but we had seniors last year. This year we have sophomores and sophomores make mistakes. We hope once again to be able to play our best game against Nebraska.

STRONGER U.N. ARM URGED

Even If Against State Interest

. . . GOLDBERG PLEADS

United Nations, N.Y. (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg urged member states Wednesday to strengthen the peacekeeping arm of the United Nations even if some U.N. decisions go against their national interests.

He disclosed also U.S. readiness to accept an arrangement in future peacekeeping procedures that would permit a permanent member of the Security Council to withhold financial support from any specific operation to which it objected.

In Policy Talk

Goldberg made the statements to the General Assembly's special political committee, where he laid down a broad outline of U.S. policy on U.N. peacekeeping procedures.

This policy recognizes the primary role of the Security Council, but stipulates that the General Assembly must retain its authority to act when the council is paralyzed by the big power veto.

He put stress also on maintaining the role of the secretary-general as the chief executive officer for any peacekeeping effort.

Goldberg's speech failed to budge the Soviet Union, which again insisted that the council must have sole authority for authorizing, financing and carrying out peacekeeping operations.

Accused of Lecturing

Soviet delegate Nikolai T. Fedorenko charged Goldberg with trying to lecture the committee on moral principles while carrying out what the Russian described as "criminal intervention" in the Dominican Republic in violation of the U.N. Charter.

Goldberg in turn accused Fedorenko of frustrating the United Nations by casting more than 100 vetoes in the Security Council, and by opposing the interests of the smaller countries, including those of Asia and Africa, in seeking to weaken the assembly's peacekeeping role.

"It is our determination to rely on the United Nations, to use the United Nations, to have confidence in the United Nations' operating capacity," Goldberg said.

Weighs Risks

"The stakes are so high that we should be willing to take chances on the United Nations' capacity to act, and to back it up even when some of its particular decisions go against our immediate national desires. For the risks of a United Nations without the capacity to act are far greater than the risks of a United Nations with that capacity."

He said that while the United States believes firmly in collective fiscal responsibility, it recognized it cannot be achieved in practice until there is a change in the attitude of certain permanent members.

This referred to the Soviet Union, which is about $62 million in arears on Congo and Middle East peacekeeping, and France, which is about $17.7 millions in arrears on Congo costs. They and the United States, Britain and Nationalist China are the five permanent members of the council.

Doubts On Irish Idea

Goldberg expressed reservations about a plan being pushed by Irish Foreign Minister Frank Aiken. This would have the permanent members of the council voting for an operation shoulder 70% of the cost. The developed countries would contribute 25% and the developing countries five per cent.

Any operation would require a three-fourths vote in the General Assembly.

Fedorenko rejected the Irish proposal outright, saying the Soviet Union would not accept any plan it thinks violates the U.N. Charter.

War Darkens Thanksgiving Day

New York (AP) — Americans pause Thursday to observe Thanksgiving Day in the shadow of a worsening war in Viet Nam.

In a message to the troops, President Johnson said, "We raise our voices in a single prayer of thanks for your courage and your dedication."

Marines, Villagers

Food and gifts were being delivered to armed forces around the world. In Viet Nam, a Marine platoon shares its bounty with village children.

Throughout the United States families planned to gather for the traditional turkey feast. The President's family will be at his Texas ranch, although his daughter, Luci, may have to stay in Washington because of a fever.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower will have turkey with his immediate family in Washington's Walter Reed Army Hospital, where he is recovering from a heart attack.

The White House said Johnson grieved over the announcement of high casualties in Viet Nam — 240 Americans killed last week.

It was worse than the average casualty rate during the Korean War, but did not approach the 554 who were killed in traffic during the four-day 1964 Thanksgiving holiday.

At the federal reformatory in Chillicothe, Ohio, 612 of the 990 prisoners volunteered for a two-day "bleed-in" — contributing blood for servicemen in Viet Nam.

"It's our way to say thanks for being an American in spite of circumstances," explained one prisoner.

In Washington, organizers of a Saturday march "for peace in Viet Nam" said they expect 20,000 to take part. In New Jersey, it was reported that some union bus drivers refused to take people to the demonstration.

In his message to the armed forces, the President said:

"Today we do not march in support of your unfinished task. We carry no placards to bolster your cause. We sign no petitions to show you our unity.

"But we do much more. Today we raise our voices in a single prayer of thanks for your courage and your dedication. And that is the most powerful voice of all."

Parades — many featuring Santa Claus — will be staged in New York, Philadelphia, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Charlotte, N.C., and other cities. Some will be televised, from 9 to 11 a.m. CST, by NBC and CBS.

In Massachusetts, services were planned re-enacting the pilgrims' first Thanksgiving in 1621.

PALS MAKE SURE JENNY TO SEE BEAU, GRADUATE

She chose to fly to her boyfriend, Pvt. Wayne Wright of Urbanna, Va. He leaves for Viet Nam Friday.

But, thanks to school friends, she will be able to do both.

Westhampton coed chipped in and filled a sock and a milk bottle with $140, enough money to cover most of the plane ticket. She will not have to use her spring semester's tuition money for the trip.

United Airlines officials made personal contributions and arranged a student discount when she bought her ticket Tuesday.

Jenny, who was to leave for Ft. Sill late Wednesday, is full of mixed emotions both happy and sad. "But it will be a real Thanksgiving that's for sure," she said.

Mobutu Overthrows Kasavubu Government

Leopoldville, The Congo (AP) —A military coup overthrew President Joseph Kasavubu and the Congolese government Thursday.

The coup was led by the army commander, Lt. Gen. Joseph Mobutu, who assumed the powers of chief of state and named Col. Leonard Mulamba to form an all-party government.

The apparently peaceful and bloodless coup came during the night. The whereabouts of Kasavubu and Premier-designate Evariste Kimba were not immediately known.

Congolese politics had been in a turmoil since Kasavubu on Oct. 13 ousted Premier Moise Tshombe and named Kimba to replace him. Tshombe mustered enough support in parliament to defeat his successor on his first vote of confidence Nov. 14, but Kasavubu asked Kimba to try to form another government.

The Congolese national radio broadcast this communique Thursday morning.

"On the evening of Nov. 24 the army commander in chief, Lt. Gen. Joseph D. Mobutu, invited the army leaders to his home. There they discussed the military and political situation and found the military situation to be satisfactory.

"The army leaders found the political situation against the best interests of the country. The army is the only national institution with the confidence of all the people. The army takes the following measures:

"1. President Joseph Kasavubu is dismissed

"2. Premier-designate Evariste Kimba is relieved of his duties

"3. Lt. Gen. Joseph D. Mobutu assumes the functions of the chief of state.

"4. All national institutions will continue to function

"5. The Congo will continue its obligations to the United Nations and the Organization of African Unity

6. The Congo vows friendship to its neighbors

"7. The Congo adheres to the Organization of African States and Malagasy if parliament agrees.

"8. Rapprochements with other African states will continue.

"9. No external interference will be tolerated

10. Censorship against all suppressed papers is lifted and editors are invited to print again.

11. All constitutional rights are respected, including the freedom of conscience, religion, expression, press and assembly.

"12. All political prisoners except those who took part in the rebellion are freed.

13. The army guarantees the security of all persons, foreign and domestic."

Braveboy From Coward Sleeps Safely At Last

Pleiku, Viet Nam (AP) — A wounded American cavalryman, PFC. Toby Braveboy, slept safely Wednesday night in a U.S. field hospital after a week of hiding in the Ia Drang Valley from North Vietnamese troops who gunned him down Nov. 17.

The crew of a scouting helicopter, responding to the wave of a T-shirt, plucked him from the jungle Wednesday.

A 24-year-old trooper from Coward, S.C., Braveboy was rushed to Pleiku in the central highlands, for treatment of bullet wounds in the chest, arms and hands.

Maj. Philip Warner, a Los Angeles surgeon, handled the case in a 30-minute operation and reported Braveboy's condition was satisfactory.

"Braveboy was quite dehydrated and emaciated," Warner said, "but his medical condition was good. The amazing thing about this from a medical point of view was that he was not in worse shape."

The youth said he had nothing to eat during his long vigil, but got water from a stream near where he lay.

Braveboy is a member of the 2nd Battalion, 7th Regiment, 1st Air Cavalry Division, a battalion that was hit on the march while shifting positions in the valley in the bloodiest battle of the war.

Warner declined to let newsmen interview him, saying, "He needs a good night's sleep." But Braveboy reported these highlights of his experience to the doctor and his company commander, Capt. Joel Sugdinis of Cornwall Bridge, Conn.

Braveboy's small detachment was overrun by what he believed to be a company of North Vietnamese.

Wounded severely, he played dead. The communists decapitated a soldier lying next to him and he was spattered by the blood.

Later he narrowly escaped execution by a young North Vietnamese infantryman. The youth approached, peered at him closely and raised his rifle. He apparently had a coup de grace in mind.

Braveboy remembered raising an arm and believed that aroused a spirit of compassion in the North Vietnamese. The youth lowered his rifle and walked away.

Suit Being Readied To Test Sales Act

A lawsuit testing the constitutionality of the new installment sales act approved by the 1965 Legislature is being prepared for filing in Cuming County District Court.

The lawsuit will involve a time sales agreement on the purchase of farm equipment in West Point, according to industry spokesmen.

The sale will permit the industry to test all aspects of the new law, it was understood.

At Issue

At issue is the validity of the new act under which merchants and car dealers may sell merchandise on time.

Maximum interest rates under the act, LB283, are 18% of the first $1,000 and 12% on the balance. The law replaces two earlier installment sales acts which failed to meet constitutional tests before the State Supreme Court.

However, constitutional barriers on which the earlier acts tripped have since been removed by a vote of the people.

Led To Crisis

Failure to test Nebraska's first time-sales act, the 1959 law, was a major factor in producing the financial crisis which accompanied court action in 1963.

Time-sales agreements had been consummated under terms of the untested law for four years when the act finally reached the State Supreme Court.

The court's action on June 28, 1963 led the state into a 23-month-old muddle over interest rates statutes which involved two regular and one special legislative sessions.

A 1964 vote of the people knocked out constitutional prohibitions against local or special interest rate laws, clearing the path for approval of a new installment sales act by the 1965 Legislature.

Mobutu Overthrows Kasavubu Government

Leopoldville, The Congo (AP) —A military coup overthrew President Joseph Kasavubu and the Congolese government Thursday.

The coup was led by the army commander, Lt. Gen. Joseph Mobutu, who assumed the powers of chief of state and named Col. Leonard Mulamba to form an all-party government.

The apparently peaceful and bloodless coup came during the night. The whereabouts of Kasavubu and Premier-designate Evariste Kimba were not immediately known.

The Congolese national radio broadcast this communique Thursday morning:

"On the evening of Nov. 24 the army commander in chief, Lt. Gen. Joseph D. Mobutu, invited the army leaders to his home. There they discussed the military and political situation and found the military situation to be satisfactory.

"The army leaders found the political situation against the best interests of the country. The army is the only national institution with the confidence of all the people. The army takes the following measures:

Closing the communique, the army demanded the confidence of all people.

The sale will permit the industry to test all aspects of the new law, it was understood.

At Issue

At issue is the validity of the new act under which merchants and car dealers may sell merchandise on time.

Maximum interest rates under the act, LB283, are 18% of the first $1,000 and 12% on the balance. The law replaces two earlier installment sales acts which failed to meet constitutional tests before the State Supreme Court.

However, constitutional barriers on which the earlier acts tripped have since been removed by a vote of the people.

Led To Crisis

Failure to test Nebraska's first time-sales act, the 1959 law, was a major factor in producing the financial crisis which accompanied court action in 1963.

Time-sales agreements had been consummated under terms of the untested law for four years when the act finally reached the State Supreme Court.

The court's action on June 28, 1963 led the state into a 23-month-old muddle over interest rates statutes which involved two regular and one special legislative sessions.

A 1964 vote of the people knocked out constitutional prohibitions against local or special interest rate laws, clearing the path for approval of a new installment sales act by the 1965 Legislature.

Braveboy From Coward Sleeps Safely At Last

Pleiku, Viet Nam (AP) — A wounded American cavalryman, PFC. Toby Braveboy, slept safely Wednesday night in a U.S. field hospital after a week of hiding in the Ia Drang Valley from North Vietnamese troops who gunned him down Nov. 17.

The crew of a scouting helicopter, responding to the wave of a T-shirt, plucked him from the jungle Wednesday.

A 24-year-old trooper from Coward, S.C., Braveboy was rushed to Pleiku in the central highlands, for treatment of bullet wounds in the chest, arms and hands.

Maj. Philip Warner, a Los Angeles surgeon, handled the case in a 30-minute operation and reported Braveboy's condition was satisfactory.

"Braveboy was quite dehydrated and emaciated," Warner said, "but his medical condition was good. The amazing thing about this from a medical point of view was that he was not in worse shape."

The youth said he had nothing to eat during his long vigil, but got water from a stream near where he lay.

Braveboy is a member of the 2nd Battalion, 7th Regiment, 1st Air Cavalry Division, a battalion that was hit on the march while shifting positions in the valley in the bloodiest battle of the war.

Warner declined to let newsmen interview him, saying, "He needs a good night's sleep." But Braveboy reported these highlights of his experience to the doctor and his company commander, Capt. Joel Sugdinis of Cornwall Bridge, Conn.:

Braveboy's small detachment was overrun by what he believed to be a company of North Vietnamese.

Wounded severely, he played dead. The communists decapitated a soldier lying next to him and he was spattered by the blood.

Later he narrowly escaped execution by a young North Vietnamese infantryman. The youth approached, peered at him closely and raised his rifle. He apparently had a coup de grace in mind.

Braveboy remembered raising an arm and believed that aroused a spirit of compassion in the North Vietnamese. The youth lowered his rifle and walked away.

240 DEAD IN 1 WEEK, MOSTLY IN IA DRANG

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP)—A record total of 240 Americans killed in Viet Nam in one week underline a new official warning Thursday that the war will be long.

"It involves a long conflict and we must be prepared to accept this," Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. commander, told the American people in a Thanksgiving Day interview.

A battle on the central coast near Quang Ngai, 330 miles northeast of Saigon, reflected the shifting scope of the jungle war. A detachment of 500 Vietnamese troops overran 200 Viet Cong and reported they killed 150. The Red survivors broke contact and fled.

Exceeds Korea

U.S. spokesman disclosed Wednesday the greatest American battle toll since the Korean War, when deaths averaged about 210 a week, was piled up from Nov. 14 to Nov. 20.

Most of the bloodshed developed in the savage fighting between North Vietnamese regulars and U.S. cavalrymen in the Ia Drang Valley, a central highlands sector now quiet.

In addition to the 240 dead, 470 Americans were wounded and six missing. The highest previous toll was in the week ended Nov. 23: 86 killed and 230 wounded.

357 Vietnamese

South Vietnamese government forces, still carrying the main load in combat lost 357 killed and 807 wounded. That was more than double their casualties of the previous week.

On the other hand, a record number of communist casualties also was reported—2,262 dead and 436 captured. As usual there was no estimate of communist wounded. American officials pointed out that the death ratio was more than 2 to 1 in favor of the allies.

Grim prospects ahead have led to orders for enlargement of the U.S. Air Force morgue at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Airport, through which pass the remains of all American fighting men who die in Viet Nam.

The low green and white structure is to get a huge new refrigerator that will hold 200 bodies, double the present capacity. The morgue's staff of 17 will be increased to 25.

Withal, there was thanksgiving among the Americans in Viet Nam. They were among personnel of the U.S. armed forces to whom President Johnson addressed his holiday blessing: "We ask of God that He watch over you and give you strength."

'LITTLE LIEUTENANT' TELLS WHY

Lt. Joe Marm, dubbed the "little lieutenant" by his men, tells with difficulty how he stormed a communist machine gun bunker in the Ia Drang Valley battle in Viet Nam. The 24-year-old Medal of Honor nominee from Washington, D.C., has trouble talking because his jaws are wired together on account of wounds. He stormed the Red position "because it was getting late and I wanted to get the job over." He killed 18 Reds. With him at Valley Forge Army Hospital near Phoenixville, Pa., are his father and a sister, Dorothy.

Tourist Given 'Harsh' Term

Murmansk, U.S.S.R. (AP)—A Soviet court sentenced American tourist Newcomb Mott to 18 months in a labor camp Wednesday for crossing into a Soviet enclave on the Norwegian border without a visa.

The United States called the sentence extreme and harsh.

"The court decision is inconsistent with past Soviet practices in cases of this kind," the State Department said in Washington.

Said Mott: "I consider the sentence unjust."

His attorney, a Russian, asked the court to be lenient and impose a suspended sentence. He arranged to appeal to a higher court.

Tearful Reunion

Mott, held since his arrest Sept. 4, heard the sentence without emotion. Then he had a tearful reunion with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mott, who had come from their home in Sheffield, Mass., to attend the trial.

Mr. and Mrs. Mott told reporters that their son felt the worst thing now is not knowing what will happen to him. He will leave the Murmansk prison where he said guards had been kind to him for a Soviet labor camp in an undisclosed place.

Mott's lawyer, Boriz Zolotukhin, was scheduled to see Mott in prison to discuss the appeal. It will be made to the supreme court of the Russian Federation.

Mott said his son "was full of praise for his lawyer and thought he had done a marvelous job, the best that could be done."

NEWCOMB MOTT

Zolotukhin asked the court for a probationary or conditional sentence.

This would have allowed Mott to go home with his parents.

The Soviet prosecutor asked for a sentence of 2½ years.

The Motts and Zolotukhin spent much of their meeting with Newcomb after the trial in assuring him that the State Department was doing everything possible for him.

"He had been told that the State Department was doing nothing," Mrs. Mott said, referring to what Soviet officials had told him.

The Motts reported that Newcomb said he was being kept by himself during the 81 days already spent in imprisonment. His 18-month sentence runs from the date of his arrest last Sept. 4.

Reds Seem To Believe U.S. Protests Have LBJ In Trouble

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The communist side in the Viet Nam war seems to have persuaded itself that the Johnson administration is in serious political trouble at home. The communists consequently express determination not to permit the United States to "negotiate from a position of strength."

Demonstrations, protests, draft-card burnings in the United States apparently contributed to stiffened resistance to any compromise which might lead to peace negotiations. Having made much of these things, Hanoi and Peking appear now to believe their own propaganda.

The Hanoi-Peking performance recalls the time before World War II when Adolf Hitler became convinced of U.S. and British disunity and weakness. Stalin, too, often was misled at that time by his own dogma-ridden advisers who told him only what he wanted to hear.

Letter To Pauling

Hanoi has broadcast what was described as a Nov. 17 letter from President Ho Chi Minh to the American pacifist, Dr. Linus C. Pauling. This letter supports the impression that the communist side regards the activities of the "get out of Viet Nam" element in the United States as a vast movement of the American public which eventually could force a U.S. retreat in South Viet Nam.

Every available yardstick in the United States indicates these demonstrations are a minority movement, but North Vietnamese and the Chinese commentators picture them as applying enormous political pressure on Washington.

People's Daily of Peking spoke Tuesday of "a new awakening of the political consciousness of the American people, a growth in their strength and a changing situation in the United States."

A day before, Hanoi Radio spoke of a "wave of protest against the U.S. aggression in Viet Nam which is surging ever higher." It portrayed this as having "hammered strongly and constantly" at the administration.

Belief In Turbulence

The tone of all these statements indicates a belief that the political situation in the United States is so turbulent that the admministration is feverishly anxious now to "negotiate from a position of strength," while it has powerful forces in South Viet Nam.

It lacked that position of strength last year, when there were feelers from North Viet Nam for talks. The Viet Cong then seemed hot on the scent of victory, and it is likely the communists would have considered themselves to have had a preponderant advantage in any talks held then.

Now the situation is different. U.S. strength in Viet Nam has been greatly expanded. In unconditional talks the U.S. presence would remain to prevent the communists from engulfing the south. The communists demand complete U.S. withdrawal before any international discussions can be considered.

With the worldwide publicity given U.S. protests, the communist side now seems to believe that whatever advantage the Americans might have in the huge military buildup might be counteracted and nullified by pressure on the administration at home—that all the communist side has to do is hang on, fight on and wait, while what they regard as a vast public uproar in the United States grows in volume.

A similar situation in their own countries would be incredible short of a breakdown of government authority.

The communists display a fascination with such things as advertisements in respected U.S. newspapers denouncing the administration. Hanoi propaganda cites such things as the "Women Strike for Peace" advertisements and open letters to the administration as proof of a wave of protest and the growth of a movement which "is a great encouragement to the people of our whole country."

Protests Played Up

The propaganda makes much of "huge demonstrations in California," and dismisses counterdemonstrations supporting the administration as "hired thugs who try to intervene . . . to no avail."

Said Hanoi Radio this week: "The movement is being evolved at a tempestuous rate and on a large scale, with various forms of struggle . . . The antidraft movement also has been boiling among American youths of draft age. Every day more American youths have been burning their draft cards, despite suppression by the U.S. government.

The extent to which the Peking and Hanoi regimes believe in this picture of a "vast, surging movement" is likely to influence their attitude toward terms for peace negotiations.

LA Poverty Money OKd

Washington (UPI)—Nearly $2 million in federal antipoverty funds were authorized Wednesday for the Los Angeles area swept by rioting last summer.

Sargent Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, said about $1.8 million of an $8.3 million grant for neighborhood social services in Los Angeles was designated for Watts and surrounding area.

Delay in antipoverty funds for Los Angeles was the subject of debate following the rioting period. At the time, federal officials blamed the delay on local politics.

The Los Angeles grant was the largest of 18, totaling $17.7 million, announced Wednesday.

Shriver said the funds would permit the Economic and Youth Opportunities Agency of Los Angeles to expand its work in 13 poverty areas.

Benevolent Kuwait Ruler Dies

Kuwait (AP)—The billionaire ruler of Kuwait, who used his oil wealth to drag this little backward shiekdom into the 20th Century, died Wednesday at 70.

Kuwait Radio said the death of Sheik Abdullah as-Salem as-Sabah followed a heart attack he suffered Oct. 26 at the opening session of the parliament he created in his design for a modern state.

Premier Sabah as-Salem as-Sabah, crown prince and younger brother of the sheik, was proclaimed ruler by the council of ministers.

Struggle Rumored

Since Abdullah was stricken last month, there had been rumors of a power struggle over succession to the throne. Abdullah had numerous brothers and other relatives.

Thirty days of mourning were proclaimed, and a state military funeral was set for Thursday.

A tall heavy man with a small gray mustache and a goatee, Abdullah had ruled the sheikdom, smaller than New Jersey, since 1950.

Working closely with the British, Abdullah obtained Kuwait's independence from Britain in June 1961. Neighboring Iraq immediately claimed the oil state and threatened to seize it.

SHEIK ABDULLAH

British troops had just pulled out of Kuwait, but Abdullah called them back and Iraq finally dropped its claim. In return for an $84 million loan, which Abdullah could easily afford, Iraq recognized Kuwait's independence.

In 1963 Abdullah achieved two goals—a parliament of 50 members was elected and Kuwait was admitted to the United Nations.

With oil gushing from a dozen fields in the sheikdom, Abdullah decided — shortly after oil production began about 20 years ago – to turn part of the wealth to bettering the lot of his 210,000 people.

Abdullah saw that schools and hospitals were built, provided free meals for school children, made educaiton compulsory under the constitution, established Kuwait University, created social health and preventive medicine centers with free medical service, and set aside allowances for widows, orphans, the crippled and the aged.

Kuwait built public housing units, transformed Kuwait into a capital with modern buildings, and erected a water distillation plant turning out two million gallons of water a day.

Kuwait also set up a fund to grant Arab states long-term loans and last year lent $470 million for such projects as enlarging Egypt's Suez Canal, irrigation in Tunisia and highways in Sudan.

$600 Million

All this Kuwait could afford; its income from oil royalties has been estimated at $600 million a year. Abullah set aside one-third of this amount for development and welfare and one-third for running the government. The other third was placed in London banks for a rainy day.

Despite his wealth, Abdullah's tastes were simple.

Lady Bird TV Beauty Show Today

Washington (AP)—Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson stars in an hour-long color television tour of Washington Thursday night to promote the beautification of America.

Pointing out the junk heaps, slums, and the polluted Potomac River along with the magnificent monuments and parks in the capital, the First Lady says:

"If everyone who is watching this program would plant a tree or some flowers and take a creative interest in what the plans are for the future of their hometown, its public buildings, schools, parks, streets and housing, wouldn't we have a more beautiful country?"

Mrs. Johnson, in narrating the film which will be seen on ABC's television network from 9 to 10 p.m. CST Thanksgiving night, injects her own great affection for the capital.

And she expresses faith that projects to cleanse the Potomac, rebuild slum areas and refurbish old neighborhoods will be successful here. "I think we can have the cities we want," the First Lady declares.

"The challenge of ugliness in our land is no small problem," the President's wife maintains. "It requires action on all government levels. But it also requires the will, the cooperation, the energy of you, the individual citizen. For it is the history of this land that whatever has been done was the citizens doing.

"Surely man, who has conquered the earth, can now learn to preserve it."

Lady Bird TV Beauty Show Today

Washington (AP)—Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson stars in an hour-long color television tour of Washington Thursday night to promote the beautification of America.

Pointing out the junk heaps, slums, and the polluted Potomac River along with the magnificent monuments and parks in the capital, the First Lady says:

"If everyone who is watching this program would plant a tree or some flowers and take a creative interest in what the plans are for the future of their hometown, its public buildings, schools, parks, streets and housing, wouldn't we have a more beautiful country?"

Mrs. Johnson, in narrating the film which will be seen on ABC's television network from 9 to 10 p.m. CST Thanksgiving night, injects her own great affection for the capital.

And she expresses faith that projects to cleanse the Potomac, rebuild slum areas and refurbish old neighborhoods will be successful here. "I think we can have the cities we want," the First Lady declares.

"The challenge of ugliness in our land is no small problem," the President's wife maintains. "It requires action on all government levels. But it also requires the will, the cooperation, the energy of you, the individual citizen. For it is the history of this land that whatever has been done was the citizens doing.

"Surely man, who has conquered the earth, can now learn to preserve it."

Bellevue College Plans Told

'66 Opening For Private School Eyed

Bellevue (P)—The president of the Bellevue Chamber of Commerce said Wednesday articles of incorporation for Bellevue College will be filed this week.

John S. Reinhart said a meeting Tuesday night decided in favor of a private school rather than one which would be part of the public school system.

The name of the school will be the same as that of a private denominational school which closed during the depression.

Earliest possible opening date of the new institution is 1966, Reinhart said. Present plans call for it to serve Sarpy County, the fringe of Iowa and South Omaha.

Directors of the non-profit organization will own the school and serve without pay, Reinhart said. It would be premature to estimate the cost of the school now and backers have no site in mind, he added.

40 Behind Idea

Forty persons described as potential board members, are behind the private school idea, he said.

A community election had been planned for next spring on a public junior college, Reinhart said, but the concern had developed over obtaining a favorable bond issue vote and the length of time it might take to make the school a reality.

The public school idea was abandoned Tuesday night after favorable action at the study committee meeting on a motion that a corporate structure be developed.

FLAGS PRESENTED TO EAGLE SCOUTS

Eagle Scout Jim Collura, right, was presented an American flag at Elks Lodge No. 80 in ceremonies Wednesday. Gary Hill, left, state chairman of Eagle Scout recognition, made the presentation. Congratulating Jim is Grand Exalted Ruler R. Leonard Bush. The presentation is part of a program inaugurated as an Americanism program of the local lodge. The program has now been adopted nationally. Nebraska Born National Elks Leader Takes Part In Frank Rain Memorial

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Fairbury — The ceremony was brief and informal, yet was also one of the truly historic moments of Nebraska Elkdom.

Some 1.4 million members actually were represented in the memorial Wednesday to Frank L. Rain, the Fairburian who had been a grand exalted ruler. Participating were two other men—one a Nebraskan and one a native son returned—who had made it to the top of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

The Fairbury stop thus was especially significant in the four-day Nebraska visit of R. Leonard Bush of California, now heading the order as grand exalted ruler. Also participating was H.L. Blackledge of Kearney, with one exception the only other Nebraskan ever to bear the national title.

Rain, an attorney described by Bush as a "wonderful, wonderful" Elk, had held the honor in 1919-20. The other ruler from this state was George Cronk of Omaha at the turn of the century.

Bush's return was highlighted by a mid-morning stop at Deshler, the birthplace he had visited only twice since leaving in 1910. Mayor Ed F. Smith headed a welcome that included a tour of the old family house and presentation of mementos.

"The last time I saw Deshler was 27 years ago," reflected the Inglewood Elk, "and I had stopped by in 1923 while pitching for Des Moines in the old Western League."

Only a day early for the golden wedding anniversary of the William Struves, the distinguished visitor and his wife surprised with a bouquet. The couple is one of the few still in town who had known Bush's father, Roy and family.

Bush's progress in the BPOE, incidentally, parallels a business success that had started with a modest lumber company job. He eventually became the firm's owner, and for several years was president as well of the Southwest Bank of Inglewood, Calif.

Becoming an Elk in 1930, Bush held numerous imporant posts before being elected top man of the order this summer. He had been president of the California State Elks Assn., for example, and coached his lodge's ritual team to a national championship in 1940.

Making the Deshler stop at mid-morning, the Nebraska caravan moved to the Fairbury lodge for a luncheon hosted by Exalted Ruler Bob Burkley.

The Beatrice lodge also was visited en route back to Lincoln, where Bush was honored at an evening dinner. The Nebraska-Oklahoma football game is on his four-day itinerary, and Friday he is to receive a Nebraska Navy admiralship from Gov. Frank Morrison.

Cheyenne Co. Jail Inmate Is Disarmed

Sidney (P) — Bill Scheter, about 22, a Cheyenne County Jail prisoner who was out for the day to work at his job, was disarmed by deputy sheriffs Wednesday after he had threatened County Atty. John Peetz Jr.

Scheter had been sentenced to 30 days in jail for driving on a suspended license and had 18 days left to serve. Sheriff W. W Schultz said Scheter had been let out of jail daily to go to work, returning to the jail at night to serve his sentence. Schulz said this was being done with county court permission.

Peetz gave this story:

He was in his office when Scheter entered, beckoning to Don Tedeso, Peetz' deputy, to come into the office from an adjoining room.

'Going To Get You'

Scheter then shouted that Peetz had been "picking" on the Scheter family and that he was going "to get you if I burn."

Scheter began wrestling with Tedesco and Peetz got up and grabbed Scheter.

Just then deputy sheriffs Gene Morris and Les Bosley entered and escorted Scheter to their car. They had been summoned by Peetz' secretary.

As the deputies prepared to start back to the jail, Scheter whipped a gun out from under his coat. Bosley spotted the movement and his warning shout sent Morris leaping over the back seat to wrestle the gun away from Scheter.

Plaintiffs

Peetz said that because he and Tedesco were plaintiffs in the original case he had asked the state attorney general to send out a special prosecutor to handle new charges against Scheter. The state officer is expected in Sidney Friday.

Said Peetz: "Personally, I think every charge that can be filed against Scheter should be filed."

Car Rolls, Teen Is Hospitalized

Brenda K. Ree, 16, of 418 No. 1st, was listed in good condition at St. Elizabeth Hospital where she was being held Wednesday for observation of possible neck and back injuries.

She was injured early Wednesday morning when the car she was driving went out of control and rolled at Charleston and 1st. Miss Reel was turning left when a wheel sunk into soft sand on the corner, police said.

Day Of Thanksgiving

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

It isn't difficult to look about the world these days and see many things that could be improved. First in the minds of most people would be the war in Viet Nam that it might come quickly to an end and U.S. troops fighting in Asia returned to their homes and families. From there people would look in many directions, each to their own personal state of affairs and the problems and anxieties that beset them.

They might contemplate how wonderful it would be if everything were just as they might like it. While it will never be that way, these same people can look around this Thanksgiving day and find many things to balance out the scales for them. Homes of America today will be permeated with a holiday atmosphere, a contentment that comes with the knowledge of personal security and satisfaction in the achievement of many things. In the kitchen, food is under preparation in sufficient quantities to more than meet the demands of those who will sit down to partake of it.

Fine Feeling Of Security

It has been a traditional part of Thanksgiving to center our attention on the bounties of the countryside and no nation on earth has more to be thankful for in this regard than the United States. While millions—some estimates run to as high as one-third of the world's population—are going hungry or starving, the people of the United States are blessed with harvests far in excess of their needs.

This one fact alone has done more to help democracy withstand the forces of tyranny aligned against it than any other single thing or even many things combined. We have at least been able to match the military might of our adversaries and their exploits in space but we have far exceeded them in the abundance of our agriculture.

If we are able to stand off this threat of freedom in the political and military arena, our productive capacity on the farm will be the one thing that could turn the tide of world thought toward democracy. Food production is the one area where the communist system has been unable to fulfill the expectations of its people and the promises of its hierarchy. It has failed in many other areas, too, but most of these failures it can skirt in one way or another. But a hungry people can be put off for only so long; they can live today on only a limited number of tomorrows. Official U.S. thinking has begun to focus, too, on this one salient feature of our free enterprise system. The current administration has directed attention to the problem of world food production with an eye on U.S. possibilities of alleviating much of the suffering that exists.

When the families of the United States sit down today to the banquets that will be spread before them, they should have no difficulty finding something to be thankful for. At the same time, they might give thought to the opportunity of our citizenry to back our government in capitalization upon our productivity for the benefit of mankind everywhere and the ultimate benefit to ourselves. Those who would be thankful but who would share nothing of what they have fail to pass the test of both their intelligence and their humanity.

Other things for which we might be thankful are as plentiful as the food that is set before us. We face the winter coming on, for instance, but with no real threat from the elements because of the progress made in the technology, medicine and science of civilization. Adequate shelter is all but taken for granted and illness is conquered with almost routine proficiency.

What once was a point of substantial age is now the prime of life for most people and the span of human life is constantly being lengthened. Infant mortality rates have been so reduced that the child who does not reach maturity is a real rarity. And the years we are given become constantly more rewarding, or at least potentially so.

The frontiers of learning are so broad today that no past generation has ever faced greater opportunities than the young people of this time. With the opportunity of learning that is theirs, the potential for improvement of the human race is virtually unlimited. Knowledge is the key to the problems that plague society and it is being assimilated at fantastic rates. No past generation has ever had the opportunity for learning that is available to the young people of today. We have advanced so fast in this area, in fact, that there is some difficulty in applying that which we come to know.

Vast Wealth Of Knowledge

On this day, too, people can look to their families and friends as parts of life for which they can be thankful. Our greatest anxiety is that we are able to find the means of sustaining the rewarding way of life that has come to be a part of our heritage. That we have a great deal for which to be thankful should be questioned by very few.

Capital Confused On Who Is Young

WASHINGTON—It was surprising how many people qualified as young at the White House party for Princess Margaret—among them Justice Abe Fortas of the Supreme Court, aged 55, and Secretary of Defense McNamara, aged 49 . . . Johnson did what Truman and Eisenhower did when they entertained royalty — though not JFK. Johnson invited most of his White House staff to attend the Princess Margaret dinner. Kennedy left the staff out to make room for outsiders. Ike invited members of his family and so did Truman . . . on one occasion when Prime Minister Attlee of England had flown across the Atlantic especially to see Truman. HST kept the Prime Minister of England waiting a full day while he, Harry, entertained Gen. David Sarnoff, then head of NBC, who had just given a singing job to daughter Margaret. Attlee wasn't even included in the White House luncheon.

Credit a freshman congressman, supposed to be seen and not heard, with canceling the Warsaw Pact, an agreement whereby all international airlines are limited to $8,300 damages in case a passenger is killed or injured. Rep. Lester Wolff, D-N.Y., crusaded to cancel this agreement negotiated before World War II when the airlines weren't making money. One recent award agreed to by American airlines totaled over $900,000 in contrast to the limit the foreign airlines were required by treaty to pay — $8,300.

Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara was fit to be tied when Adlai Stevenson was quoted as saying McNamara blocked peace talks with North Viet Nam in the late fall of 1964. The secretary of Defense was happier after the victory over the aluminum companies. Mrs. McNamara wore an evening dress with tennis shoes, the bridge of her nose built up with plastic . . . Bobby Kennedy is reported negotiating to buy a New York newspaper . . . JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr Molner: I am 64 and am very tense and nervous. My P.B.I. test was 8.4. Is this high enough to cause my condition, and what can be done about it?

—MRS. T.G.

A P.B.I. (meaning protein-bound iodine) test is a laboratory method of discovering whether the thyroid gland is normal, overactive, or underactive. It serves about the same purpose as the familiar B.M.R., or "basal metabolism rate" test, but is being used more frequently. It is a blood test.

Molner

But let's ignore the technicalities, and get down to the sort of problem that bothers a great many of us. The thyroid gland is more or less a balance wheel for our activity. If it is sluggish, we slow down. If it is overactive, tension and jitters are likely.

But remember that the thyroid doesn't necessarily tell the whole story. Obviously one's emotional outlook on life can have its effect. So can pressures, if any, under which you happen to be living.

The 8.4 P.B.I. level is slightly above normal, and could indicate a mild degree of thyroid overactivity. Subtle hyperthyroidism of this nature is not unusual in women of your age bracket.

This usually is readily compensated for by medication — a mild sedative, or sometimes one of the tranquilizers. (In very severe cases, sterner measures may be required, but that's another story.)

The mild or borderline cases are frequent and often not readily suspected.

I do think it wise to be suspicious of this possibility. But I also think it's a good idea not to put total dependence on a pill. Try to take a good look at your own emotional situation, too. Are you worried? Bored? Annoyed at things which perhaps don't merit much emotional energy?

It's all fine and good to think fondly of the placid years of maturity, but the fact is that just sitting around and being calm and placid can get to be a bore. And boredom is the state in which nerves start to build up.

Dear Dr. Molner: Some friends have delegated me to ask why most of us feel languid and lack ambition to do anything until late in the day. By about 9 p.m. we have energy to clean house or do a washing, and by midnight have energy to spare. It seems logical to us that our energy ought to be highest after a good night's rest and a protein breakfast. None of us smokes.—E.L.S.

I'm glad none of you smokes, but I don't think that has anything to do with it. There is scientific evidence that some people tend to be more active and energetic at different times of day. But we have no explanation for it.

My thought concerning your problem, E.L.S., is that it's almost entirely a matter of habit. That and the well-known human trait of putting off until later anything that we don't especially want to do.

Dear Mr. Molner: Can dilation of the eyes (for examination by an ophthalmologist) cause damage? Why do doctors prefer not to dilate after the age of 35 or 40 or so?—MRS. E.F.

Dilation of the pupils enables the doctor to determine the condition of the eyes more effectively.

However, if glaucoma is starting, or present, it is NOT advisable to dilate. And, of course, glaucoma is not likely to occur until the 40's or thereabouts.

Medication to contract the pupil of the eye is often part of the treatment for glaucoma.

If the pressure of the eyeballs is measured first, and it is normal, there is no objection to dilating the pupil. An increase in pressure is the classic sign of glaucoma.

Dear Doctor: Does coffee affect hardening of the arteries? My former doctor told me not to drink coffee, cola or carbonated beverages. He moved away. My present doctor says he doesn't think they will hurt me.—I.M.S.

None of these drinks would have any particular effect on arterial hardening. However, caffein (whether in coffee or colas) can quicken heart rate, cause nervousness and sometimes "extra" heart beats.

If you had high blood pressure or suffered from tensions, I can understand your former doctor's point; if your present doctor, having examined you recently, says there's no need to prohibit caffein, then I see no reason why you should not be able to use such beverages in moderation. The test would be whether they distrub your heart beat or create nervous tension.

Dear Dr. Molner: Three years ago I had an operation with some severe after-affects, one of them being a blood clot. I am now scheduled to have a stapedectomy to restore my hearing, but in view of the possibility of another blood clot, should I risk such surgery?—B.E.

This is entrely different type of operation, virtually bloodless and hence with no involvement of circulation. There should be no risk of a clot, and I don't think you have cause to worry.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband should lessen his cholesterol intake. What do you suggest.—MRS. F.G.T.

If he is going to make any progress he must decrease the amount of foods which tend to form cholesterol—saturated (animal) fats, chiefly, and to some extent carbohydrates.

Your doctor can suggest effective medications, but proper diet and a reasonable amount of exercise are the principal, most sensible and most effective ways.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

The Samurai Had It Right

Our executive editor tells a charming story he read in the current issue of the New Yorker.

The story had to do with ancient Japan when the Samurai ran the country. The Samurai attained high class and were a war making breed, but strictly according to their code of ethics.

Japan had not yet awakened to the doubtful world of the sophisticated West, and since the Samurai only used swords and staves the Japanese didn't know what was a gun. But finally a few models got into the country and they manufactured quite a number of them and put them in the hands of the fighting men. In due time, as is true with human nature, one side got mad at the other side and a battle ensued. The guns were infinitely more successful than the sword. The result was that 14,000 men of courage and individuality met an untimely end.

This eventuality caused the Samurai to hold a meeting and they, at length, held that there was no mark of valour in giving a gun to a soldier, then stationing him out of sword range and letting him blow a hole in his adversary. Besides the casualty list from gun fire was so high that the individual was diminished. So they ruled guns out of warfare. And for a long time that was the end of modern weaponry in Japan. War remained small and highly personal.

Don't laugh at this story. There is a lot of sense in it and we would all be better off today if we followed the Samurai thinking. Increase the fire power and you always decrease the individual. And we have got it now so that one nuclear bomb can eliminate several million unarmed people on the other side of the world. But with all this pursuit of fire power war is reduced to an event which is only an exercise in great destruction, changing the world problems some, but not curing any of them.

Determining One's Age

Since between 1890 and 1920 only 45 percent of the births in U.S. were officially recorded, now is the time for a great many Americans to figure out ways of becoming eligible for Medicare. There are just a lot of people walking around today who officially do not exist.

This will call for some ingenuity. One can keep on enjoying the privilege of citizenship merely by keeping alive. But proving that one has been alive for 65 years is another story.

We are glad to say that the Social Security people are broad minded on the subject of age and not only will conspire with applicants but will accept rare bits of proof if they have a connection with age.

One man had a date tatooed on his chest, representing the day he joined the U.S. Navy. The Social Security people looked up the Navy's record and found the date correct. The proof was good enough.

Another applicant had nothing but his mother's tombstone. He hauled that in and the SS people ruled, after looking at the death date that the applicant had to be old enough for Medicare.

One man had a date tattooed on his chest, which was a figure composed of sticks and on each stick was the birth date of the members of the family.

More common ways are producing baptismal certificates, marriage licenses, insurance policies, military service records and the family Bible.

The Social Security people will go even farther. On receipt of $4 it will aid in the investigation. And a five dollar payment will even hasten the search.

Tax Issue Due For Rest

A loose association of Lincoln and Omaha businessmen, formed for the purpose of exploring the knotty tax field in Nebraska, is reported to be hiding its time at the moment. This is understandable and it would be well if groups and individuals in general did the same thing.

There has been considerable agitation for a special session of the Legislature to deal with the state's tax problem. Gov. Frank Morrison has wisely declined to call such a session. There are a number of reasons to back him up.

For one thing, the people will vote next year on the new income tax law passed by the last session of the Unicameral. How intelligent could a special session be with such an election hanging over their heads?

It seems to be assumed by many people that the income tax will be defeated at the polls. It is ridiculous, however, to proceed with any formal actions on the basis of such an assumption. The last Legislature surely knew the income tax would be submitted to a vote by referendum petition if it were passed and the measure won approval just the same.

Additionally, what is assumed and what ultimately turns out to be the case might be two different things. The income tax law is a good one and can be easily defended. It is not at all impossible that the people, realizing the public needs that exist and understanding all the facts, approve of the new income tax law.

The most important thing in the months ahead is that the people understand the issue when they vote on the income tax law rather than base their decision on propaganda and slogans. This public understanding rather than any other new actions in the tax field should have first priority until the voters make their decision.

Mechanized Stores Take The Joy Out Of Shopping

NEW YORK — The thing most women love best about supermarkets is meandering amidst the potential meals tweaking melons, nudging avocados, gently pressing tomatoes, analyzing the color of a lamb chop and whiffing the halibut to make sure it wasn't caught two weeks ago.

Those days are on the way out, tweakers and whiffers.

We are entering into the period of computerized grocery shopping. Our dinners, like ourselves, will be at the mercy of the electronic monsters. Drop your token in the slot and don't be surprised if you hear, "I am sorry, the calf's liver you have dialed is not a working liver . . . please dial a pork roast."

It's already started in West Germany, home of the allegedly free. There is a supermarket there, already opened to a grumbling public, which is fully automated. Everything is displayed behind glass.

The customer enters by pressing a button which not only turns a turnstile but presents her with a "shopping token."

Inside, she ambles among the machines peering at unpinchable pears and unsmeilable apples (half the fun of buying an autumn apple is savoring its aroma). When she finds something that looks reasonably like a dinner possibility, she drops the token into a vending machine, presses a button, and the machine delivers the product while marking the price on the token.

Once the goodies (she hopes) are selected, she drops the token into a payment slot and receives her bill. She puts the money into another machine and it delivers her change.

The report from West Germany tries to make us feel better by pointing out that this rids the woman of "temperamental clerks, coupons, salesmanship and shoplifting temptations."

How flattering can the inventors of mass impersonalization be?

I am reminded of a few years ago when a Dr. John W. Mauchly, inventor of some of the first giant-size computers, announced that within the decade, housewives will have pocket varieties of electronic computers which will do all the family shopping.

As he visualized it, all the lady of the house will have to do is express her gustatory desires to her tiny packet of memory cells. The computer then will relate the information to the grocery of her choice.

When the grocery knows what she wants, the women will toddle to the store, enter a delivery alcove, let the computer identify itself ("I am Mrs. John Smith's personal push-button") and, in less than a minute, her package of groceries will slide down a chute ready to be hoisted home.

My basic objection to this alleged boon to busy womankind is that, should such an invention really occur, science will be taking the joy out of shopping — while removing none of the drudgery.

It is the selection of foods which is fun for a woman. It is the toting home that is the misery.

If computers are so all-fired wonderful, why can't they lug home the canned soups and return the empty pop bottles?"

Wallace Approach Lacking Today

WASHINGTON — By a striking coincidence, that shaggy-haired dreamer, Henry A. Wallace, died as the world confronts a crisis of hunger. Wallace's powerful imagination set this country on the way to accumulating surpluses which in World War II and in the food shortages in Asia and elsewhere in recent years gave the United States an invaluable resource.

As Secretary of Agriculture in the Roosevelt cabinet in the New Deal years, Wallace led the way with his ever normal granary concept to an adjustment saving the farmer from bankruptcy and setting aside reserves for the lean years. Unfortunately, in the years of his retirement on his farm in New York, when he was pushing his genetic experiments in various fields, his broad knowledge and his capacity for root thinking were not drawn on. Wallace had demonstrated a stubborn innocence in politics with his embrace of a left wing third party in 1948 that apparently made him taboo.

The Wallace type of bold, imaginative thinking is in short supply in the view of observers following the efforts of the Johnson administration to come up with a new food for peace program. President Johnson was reported ready to unveil a new proposal when newspaper publication of his intentions is understood to have resulted in postponement if not reconsideration. The President is hypersensitive on the score of leaks of information not officially authorized by the White House.

But time in the hunger crisis is running out as every speaker at the meeting of the food and agricultural organization in Rome stressed. For with expanded free distribution at home and abroad, the huge American surpluses are running down. PL-480, passed to give the surpluses to needy countries in return for local currencies, is no longer adequate and in any event it expires next year.

The President's program was said to call for a broader base with increased American farm production deliberately designed to meet needs in various parts of the world. While underdeveloped countries got American food, it was to be clearly recognized that this was stopgap assistance and the needy nations were to be assisted in building the means to produce for themselves.

The world crisis in some respects resembles the dilemma that Wallace confronted when he became secretary of agriculture in 1933.

Deeply religious and widely read in philosophy and history, he drew on two principal sources for his ever normal granary concept. One was the story of Joseph and the seven fat years and the seven lean years in the Bible. The other source was a little known work, "The Economic School of Confucious," published in 1912, which elaborated a theory deriving from the Chinese philosopher of a "constant normal granary."

As Wallace moved with Roosevelt's backing to get Congress to pass the Agricultural Adjustment act, dire predictions filled the air. Taking land out of production would demoralize the farmer and he would produce nothing. Government subsidies were a further means of corruption debauching the farmer and turning the farms into arid wastes. The dispute was carried to the Supreme Court which, in the first round, threw out the AAA as unconstitutional.

Wallace had, before coming to Washington, made a contribution that may in the light of history rate higher even than his initiation of new farm policy. As a geneticist he developed and began to market hybrid seed corn. Another Iowan who has contributed much to agricultural policy, Loren Soth, in his recently published book, "An Embarrassment of Plenty," calls this "the most dramatic food production story of the century."

Hybridization was the key to America's abundance. One of Wallace's long-time associates, Louis Bean, a wizard with figures, estimates that the development and marketing of hybrid seed corn added 15 to 18 bushels an acre to corn production. According to Bean, this has meant an added one billion bushels over the years and at $1 a bushel, that is a very considerable addition to farm income.

Only through the introduction of methods pioneered in the United States will the hunger crisis around the world be resolved.

"I expect my husband to come in soon—here's his description and what to advise him—"

Day Of Thanksgiving

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

It isn't difficult to look about the world these days and see many things that could be improved. First in the minds of most people would be the war in Viet Nam—that it might come quickly to an end and U.S. troops fighting in Asia returned to their homes and families. From there, people would look in many directions, largely to their own personal state of affairs and the problems and anxieties that beset them.

They might contemplate how wonderful it would be if everything were just as they might like it. While it will never be that way, these same people can look around this Thanksgiving day and find many things to balance out the scales for them. Homes of America today will be permeated with a holiday atmosphere, a contentment that comes with the knowledge of personal security and satisfaction in the achievement of many things. In the kitchen, food is under preparation in sufficient quantities to more than meet the demands of those who will sit down to partake of it.

Fine Feeling Of Security

It has been a traditional part of Thanksgiving to center our attention on the bounties of the countryside and no nation on earth has more to be thankful for in this regard than the United States. Capital Confused On Who Is Young

WASHINGTON—It was surprising how many people qualified as young at the White House party for Princess Margaret—among them Justice Abe Fortas of the Supreme Court, aged 55, and Secretary of Defense McNamara, aged 49 . . . Johnson did what Truman and Eisenhower did when they entertained royalty — though not JFK. Johnson invited most of his White House staff to attend the Princess Margaret dinner. Kennedy left the staff out to make room for outsiders. Ike invited members of his family and so did Truman . . . on one occasion when Prime Minister Attlee of England had flown across the Atlantic especially to see Truman, HST kept the Prime Minister of England waiting a full day while he, Harry, entertained Gen. David Sarnoff, then head of NBC, who had just given a singing job to daughter Margaret. Attlee wasn't even included in the White House luncheon.

Credit a freshman congressman, supposed to be seen and not heard, with canceling the Warsaw Pact, an agreement whereby all international airlines are limited to $8,300 damages in case a passenger is killed or injured. Rep. Lester Wolff, D-N.Y., crusaded to cancel this agreement negotiated before World War II when the airlines weren't making money. One recent award agreed to by American airlines totaled over $900,000 in contrast to the limit the foreign airlines were required by treaty to pay — $8,300.

Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara was fit to be tied when Adlai Stevenson was quoted as saying McNamara blocked peace talks with North Viet Nam in the late fall of 1964. The secretary of Defense was happier after the victory over the aluminum companies. He turned up at Averell Harriman's costume party, his face painted with aluminum, carrying a copper shield to war off the aluminum industry. Mrs. McNamara wore an evening dress with tennis shoes, the bridge of her nose built up with plastic . . . Bobby Kennedy is reported negotiating to buy a New York newspaper . . . Dorothy Kilgallen, the Broadway columnist, had just taken a drastic cut from her newspaper syndicate before she took sleeping pills.

Mechanized Stores Take The Joy Out Of Shopping

NEW YORK — The thing most women love best about supermarkets is meandering amidst the potential meals tweaking melons, nudging avocados, gently pressing tomatoes, analyzing the color of a lamb chop and whiffing the halibut to make sure it wasn't caught two weeks ago.

Those days are on the way out, tweakers and whiffers.

We are entering into the period of computerized grocery shopping. Our dinners, like ourselves, will be at the mercy of the electronic monsters. Drop your token in the slot and don't be surprised if you hear, "I am sorry, the calf's liver you have dialed is not a working liver . . . please dial a pork roast."

It's already started in West Germany, home of the allegedly free. There is a supermarket there, already opened to a grumbling public, which is fully automated. Everything is displayed behind glass.

The customer enters by pressing a button which not only turns a turnstile but presents her with a "shopping token."

Inside, she ambles among the machines peering at unpinchable pears and unsmellable apples (half the fun of buying an autumn apple is savoring its aroma). When she finds something that looks reasonably like a dinner possibility, she drops the token into a vending machine, presses a button, and the machine delivers the product while marking the price on the token.

Once the goodies (she hopes) are selected, she drops the token into a payment slot and receives her bill. She puts the money into another machine and it delivers her change.

The report from West Germany tries to make us feel better by pointing out that this rids the woman of "temperamental clerks, coupons, salesmanship and shoplifting temptations."

How flattering can the inventors of mass impersonalization be?

I am reminded of a few years ago when a Dr. John W. Mauchly, inventor of some of the first giant-size computers, announced that within the decade, housewives will have pocket varieties of electronic computers which will do all the family shopping.

As he visualized it, all the lady of the house will have to do is express her gustatory desires to her tiny packet of memory cells. The computer then will relate the information to the grocery of her choice.

When the grocery knows what she wants, the women will toddle to the store, enter a delivery alcove, let the computer identify itself ("I am Mrs. John Smith's personal push-button") and, in less than a minute, her package of groceries will slide down a chute ready to be hoisted home.

My basic objection to this alleged boon to busy womankind is that, should such an invention really occur, science will be taking the joy out of shopping — while removing none of the drudgery. It is the selection of foods which is fun for a woman. It is the toting home that is the misery.

If computers are so all-fired wonderful, why can't they lug home the canned soups and return the empty pop bottles?

JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 64 and am very tense and nervous. My P.B.I. test was 8.4. Is this high enough to cause my condition, and what can be done about it?

—MRS. T.G.

A P.B.I. (meaning protein-bound iodine) test is a laboratory method of discovering whether the thyroid gland is normal, overactive, or underactive. It serves about the same purpose as the familiar B.M.R., or "basal metabolism rate" test, but is being used more frequently. It is a blood test.

Molner

But let's ignore the technicalities, and get down to the sort of problem that bothers a great many of us. The thyroid gland is more or less a balance wheel for our activity. If it is sluggish, we slow down. If it is overactive, tension and jitters are likely.

But remember that the thyroid doesn't necessarily tell the whole story. Obviously one's emotional outlook on life can have its effect. So can pressures, if any, under which you happen to be living.

The 8.4. P.B.I. level is slightly above normal, and could indicate a mild degree of thyroid overactivity. Subtle hyperthyroidism of this nature is not unusual in women of your age bracket.

This usually is readily compensated for by medication — a mild sedative, or sometimes one of the tranquilizers. (In very severe cases, sterner measures may be required, but that's another story.)

The mild or borderline cases are frequent and often not readily suspected.

I do think it wise to be suspicious of this possibility. But I also think it's a good idea not to put total dependence on a pill. Try to take a good look at your own emotional situation, too. Are you worried? Bored? Annoyed at things which perhaps don't merit much emotional energy?

It's all fine and good to think fondly of the placid years of maturity, but the fact is that just sitting around and being calm and placid can get to be a bore. And boredom is the state in which nerves start to build up.

Dear Dr. Molner: Some friends have delegated me to ask why most of us feel languid and lack ambition to do anything until late in the day. By about 9 p.m. we have energy to clean house or do a washing, and by midnight have energy to spare. It seems logical to us that our energy ought to be highest after a good night's rest and a protein breakfast. None of us smokes.—E.L.S.

I'm glad none of you smokes, but I don't think that has anything to do with it. There is scientific evidence that some people tend to be more active and energetic at different times of day. But we have no explanation for it.

My thought concerning your problem, E.L.S., is that it's almost entirely a matter of habit. That and the well-known human trait of putting off until later anything that we don't especially want to do.

Dear Mr. Molner: Can dilation of the eyes (for examination by an ophthalmologist) cause damage? Why do doctors prefer not to dilate after the age of 35 or 40 or so?—MRS. E.F.

Dilation of the pupils enables the doctor to determine the condition of the eyes more effectively.

However, if glaucoma is starting, or present, it is NOT advisable to dilate. And, of course, glaucoma is not likely to occur until the 40's or thereabouts.

Medication to contract the pupil of the eye is often part of the treatment for glaucoma.

If the pressure of the eyeballs is measured first, and it is normal, there is no objection to dilating the pupil. An increase in pressure is the classic sign of glaucoma.

Dear Doctor: Does coffee affect hardening of the arteries? My former doctor told me not to drink coffee, cola or carbonated beverages. He moved away. My present doctor says he doesn't think they will hurt me.—I.M.S.

None of these drinks would have any particular effect on arterial hardening. However, caffein (whether in coffee or colas) can quicken heart rate, cause nervousness and sometimes "extra" heart beats.

If you had high blood pressure or suffered from tensions, I can understand your former doctor's point; if your present doctor, having examined you recently, says there's no need to prohibit caffein, then I see no reason why you should not be able to use such beverages in moderation. The test would be whether they distrub your heart beat or create nervous tension.

Dear Dr. Molner: Three years ago I had an operation with some severe after-affects, one of them being a blood clot. I am now scheduled to have a stapedectomy to restore my hearing, but in view of the possibility of another blood clot, should I risk such surgery?—B.E.

This is entrely different type of operation, virtually bloodless and hence with no involvement of circulation. There should be no risk of a clot, and I don't think you have cause to worry.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband should lessen his cholesterol intake. What do you suggest.—MRS. F.G.T.

If he is going to make any progress he must decrease the amount of foods which tend to form cholesterol—saturated (animal) fats, chiefly, and to some extent carbohydrates.

Your doctor can suggest effective medications, but proper diet and a reasonable amount of exercise are the principal, most sensible and most effective ways.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Wallace Approach Lacking Today

WASHINGTON — By a striking coincidence, that shaggy-haired dreamer, Henry A. Wallace, died as the world confronts a crisis of hunger. Wallace's powerful imagination set this country on the way to accumulating surpluses which in World War II and in the food shortages in Asia and elsewhere in recent years gave the United States an invaluable resource.

As Secretary of Agriculture in the Roosevelt cabinet in the New Deal years, Wallace led the way with his ever normal granary concept to an adjustment saving the farmer from bankruptcy and setting aside reserves for the lean years. Unfortunately, in the years of his retirement on his farm in New York, when he was pushing his genetic experiments in various fields, his broad knowledge and his capacity for root thinking were not drawn on. Wallace had demonstrated a stubborn innocence in politics with his embrace of a left wing third party in 1948 that apparently made him taboo.

The Wallace type of bold, imaginative thinking is in short supply in the view of observers following the efforts of the Johnson administration to come up with a new food for peace program. President Johnson was reported ready to unveil a new proposal when newspaper publication of his intentions is understood to have resulted in postponement if not reconsideration. The President is hypersensitive on the score of leaks of information not officially authorized by the White House.

But time in the hunger crisis is running out as every speaker at the meeting of the food and agricultural organization in Rome stressed. For with expanded free distribution at home and abroad, the huge American surpluses are running down. PL-430, passed to give the surpluses to needy countries in return for local currencies, is no longer adequate and in any event it expires next year.

The President's program was said to call for a broader base with increased American farm production deliberately designed to meet needs in various parts of the world. While underdeveloped countries got American food, it was to be clearly recognized that this was stopgap assistance and the needy nations were to be assisted in building the means to produce for themselves.

The world crisis in some respects resembles the dilemma that Wallace confronted when he became secretary of agriculture in 1933.

Deeply religious and widely read in philosophy and history, he drew on two principal sources for his ever normal granary concept. One was the story of Joseph and the seven fat years and the seven lean years in the Bible. The other source was a little known work, "The Economic School of Confucious," published in 1912, which elaborated a theory deriving from the Chinese philosopher of a "constant normal granary."

As Wallace moved with Roosevelt's backing to get Congress to pass the Agricultural Adjustment act, dire predictions filled the air. Taking land out of production would demoralize the farmer and he would produce nothing. Government subsidies were a further means of corruption debauching the farmer and turning the farms into arid wastes. The dispute was carried to the Supreme Court which, in the first round, threw out the AAA as unconstitutional.

Wallace had, before coming to Washington, made a contribution that may in the light of history rate higher even than his initiation of new farm policy. As a geneticist he developed and began to market hybrid seed corn. Another Iowan who has contributed much to agricultural policy, Loren Soth, in his recently published book, "An Embarrassment of Plenty," calls this "the most dramatic food production story of the century."

Hybridization was the key to America's abundance. One of Wallace's long-time associates, Louis Bean, a wizard with figures, estimates that the development and marketing of hybrid seed corn added 15 to 18 bushels an acre to corn production. According to Bean, this has meant an added one billion bushels over the years and at $1 a bushel, that is a very considerable addition to farm income.

Only through the introduction of methods pioneered in the United States will the hunger crisis around the world be resolved.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Clubs Help Retain Occupational Friendships After Retirement

By ROBERT PETERSON

A man's best friends are often those with whom he toils. When he retires he may vow to continue seeing old associates. But it's not uncommon for the best of buddies to drift apart and never see each other again.

The best way to retain warm occupational friendships is for retired personnel to form clubs, issue a periodic newsletter and hold annual reunions.

All airline pilots are required by F.A.A. regulations to retire at 60. So as not to lose touch with each other, retiring pilots of American Airlines four years ago launched a club known as the Grey Eagles. Membership is open to all pilots of the airline who have reached or are approaching the three score milestone.

Have talked with a number of these ex-birdmen assembled in Phoenix, Ariz. for their annual reunion. None seems bored. One former pilot, accustomed to winging over the continent twice weekly, is finding earthbound satisfaction running a farm in the Ozarks. Another heads his own travel bureau. One has set himself up as a golf pro, and one runs a fish hatchery. Many have gone into real estate.

The most colorful switch has been pulled by Byron Moore. "When I got the boot five years ago," said this slim, blond veteran of three decades with the airline, "I revived my childhood interest in sailing. It wasn't long until I decided the most exciting boat around is a catamaran — the twin-hull sailboat of Polynesian origin.

"Instead of building a home, my wife and I decided to build a big catamaran. We sat down with a boat designer and planned one 48 feet long and 19 feet wide. Then I took the designs to Italy where I had it built — largely of laminated woods. It would have run maybe $100,000 to build in the States, but cost about half that there.

"We gave it a trial run from Genoa to Majorca. I hadn't sailed since I was a kid, so it meant learning all over again in my 60's. Then four crew members and I set sail for Barbados in the Caribbean. The 5,000 mile trip took us 22 days and was one of the great adventures of my life. A catamaran has amazing stability. There's double the speed of a conventional sailing vessel, and an almost total absence of rock and roll."

Where are they living now? "In the harbor at St. Thomas, V.I. We've seen most of the world and consider this about as close to paradise as man can get. We've got the space of a four-room apartment aboard and it's as comfortable as any home-sweet-home we've ever had. Once or twice a month we pull anchor and sail off to neighboring islands. This winter we'll go to Santa Monica, Calif., for visits with old buddies. And next summer we may sail to Europe.

"The boat is something of a curiosity as there are only a dozen catamarans of similar size around. People are always wanting to come on for a look, so we meet lots of new people. Once in a while I charter the boat out for a week or two. If I wanted to, I could recoup the cost of the boat in a few years of regular charter.

"Retirement is more satisfying than I expected," he concluded. "The boat gets much of the credit but so does our Grey Eagles outfit."

Drive To Suspend Tax Apparently Successful

The State Justice Department Wednesday said referendum petition signatures to suspend implementation of the controversial income tax law must total 10% of the last statewide vote for governor, but only five per cent of the vote in 38 counties.

It had previously been believed that the 10% requirement was also necessary in the 38 counties to suspend the law.

The opinion, written for Secretary of State Frank Marsh, apparently assures the success of the petition drive to place the tax question on the November, 1966, ballot and prevent state officials from spending any funds to prepare for implementation of the tax until after voters decide its fate.

Marsh reported that a total of 60,921 petition signatures had been validated as of Wednesday, well above the statewide 10% mark. In addition, the five per cent requirement had been met in 60 counties.

To place a question to a vote of the people, referendum signatures must total five per cent of the last statewide vote for governor, with the five per cent mark also met in each of 38 counties.

Marsh's office long ago validated a sufficient number of signatures to place the tax to a vote, but doubt remained as to the success of the attempt to suspend the tax because of the mistaken belief that 10% signature totals—not five per cent totals—were required in 33 separate counties.

The Justice Department said the meaning of the constitutional requirements for referendum drives becomes clear "when we consider the total number of petitioners required as one element and the distribution by county as another."

The state income tax, enacted by the last Legislature, is scheduled to become operative on Jan. 1, 1967.

Driver, 84, Killed At Crossing

. . . In Shelton

Shelton (AP) — An elderly Shelton man was killed Wednesday in a Shelton railroad crossing crash.

A railway spokesman identified him as Sam Burmood, 84, of Shelton. He apparently was alone in the car.

Auto Stalled

The accident occurred at the Union Pacific Railroad's Main Street crossing. The spokesman said the train involved was a westbound local freight.

The railroad said the crossing is protected by flashing lights and crossing gates, and that Burmood's car stalled between the gates which dropped automatically at the approach of the train.

Dog Bite Damage Suit Dismissed Against Dworaks

Omaha (AP) — A dog bite suit against former Mayor and Mrs. James Dworak of Omaha was dismissed in District Court after Judge John Murphy said attorneys told him a settlement had been reached.

The $15,703 suit was filed in behalf of Margaret Evans, 12, of Omaha. She said she was attacked by the Dworak dog in October of 1960 while standing on the Dworak lawn. The Dworaks since have moved to California.

GOP Recruitment Program Outlined

Lexington (UPI) — State Republicans have outlined a recruitment and training program at the precinct level, state GOP coordinator William E. Barrett said.

Barrett labeled the project the "MORE program." It is to instruct party workers in techniques for electing Republicans in the 1966 election, Barrett said.

Harrison School Issue Rejected

Harrison (AP) — A bond issue for school construction totaling $400,000 barely failed in a special election at Harrison. The vote was 291 for and 260 against, but a 55% majority was needed and the bond issue got but 51.9%.

Driver, 84, Killed At Crossing

. . . In Shelton

Shelton (AP) — An elderly Shelton man was killed Wednesday in a Shelton railroad crossing crash.

A railway spokesman identified him as Sam Burmood, 84, of Shelton. He apparently was alone in the car.

Auto Stalled

The accident occurred at the Union Pacific Railroad's Main Street crossing. The spokesman said the train involved was a westbound local freight.

The railroad said the crossing is protected by flashing lights and crossing gates, and that Burmood's car stalled between the gates which dropped automatically at the approach of the train.

Dog Bite Damage Suit Dismissed Against Dworaks

Omaha (AP) — A dog bite suit against former Mayor and Mrs. James Dworak of Omaha was dismissed in District Court after Judge John Murphy said attorneys told him a settlement had been reached.

The $15,703 suit was filed in behalf of Margaret Evans, 12, of Omaha. She said she was attacked by the Dworak dog in October of 1960 while standing on the Dworak lawn. The Dworaks since have moved to California.

GOP Recruitment Program Outlined

Lexington (UPI) — State Republicans have outlined a recruitment and training program at the precinct level, state GOP coordinator William E. Barrett said.

Barrett labeled the project the "MORE program." It is to instruct party workers in techniques for electing Republicans in the 1966 election, Barrett said.

Harrison School Issue Rejected

Harrison (AP) — A bond issue for school construction totaling $400,000 barely failed in a special election at Harrison. The vote was 291 for and 260 against, but a 55% majority was needed and the bond issue got but 51.9%.

Opinion Asked In Tax Case Involving Western Electric

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The State Board of Equalization Wednesday requested an attorney general's opinion on whether the board can reexamine the 1965 valuation on the Western Electric industrial plant near Omaha.

Gov. Frank Morrison, board chairman, said, "As a lawyer, I'm doubtful that the board can reconvene to hear a complaint once the levy has been set."

Assistant Atty. Gen. Homer Hamilton said an opinion could be prepared by next week, but unofficially indicated he agreed with the governor.

Classified As Rural

Douglas County's largest industrial plant was classified as rural property and valued at $30 million in 1959 by the county equalization board. It was originally valued at nearly $35.3 million when completed in 1957.

Last August, the state board ordered a 10% increase on Douglas County rural property, but no change was made in urban.

Six Douglas County villages with $35 million valuation were transferred from urban to rural classification with the board's approval when the Douglas County error was caught at the last minute by the state tax commissioner's office.

W. C. Fraser, an Omaha attorney representing Western Electric, told the board that the industrial plant is "not rural property."

Depreciation

He said the plant is nearly nine years old and he had urged company officials to seek a reduction because of depreciation but they were waiting for another year.

James S. Herbert, the plant's works manager, said Western Electric "wants to be a good citizen and pay its fair share of taxes," but said the unanticipated state board action will "add $60,000 in taxes to our operating costs."

State Tax Commissioner George Dworak laid the blame for the Western Electric increase at the doorstep of Douglas County officials.

"Douglas County certified to the state that all rural property in the county was equalized," he said. "If this were true, then there would be no problem with the blanket action taken by the state."

Dworak noted other industrial plants and uses outside the city limits of Omaha were classified as rural.

Seven Next Year

The tax commissioner said that seven property classifications would be used in next year's abstract and "industrial will be one."

The governor said every effort would be made to see that a similar problem does not occur in next year's equalization sessions.

However, he also noted that Western Electric's tax increase probably would not have been as great from the valuation hike if Douglas County "had readjusted their tax levy after the state board equalized valuations between counties."

Housing Facilities Lacking

. . AT COLLEGES

The State Normal Board Wednesday released figures showing what one official called "a very serious shortage" of on-campus housing facilities at the four state colleges

The report showed that 19 of the 27 housing facilities at the colleges of Peru, Wayne, Kearney and Chadron were filled at or above capacity for the current semester.

The 27 facilities were designed to house 4,063 persons, but because of lack of housing space, 4,494 students and faculty members were forced to live in the facilities this year, the report said.

Serious

"This is a very serious shortage because we have been forced to place three students in rooms designed for two," said Normal Board Coordinator F. B. Decker. "That's not conducive to good dormitory living."

Enrollment at the four colleges increased by 1,673 students this semester, but housing expansion failed to keep pace, Dr. Decker said.

Dormitories which together will provide housing for 1,400 students are now under construction at the four colleges and are scheduled to be ready for occupancy by the fall semester of 1966. In addition, plans are being prepared for more dormitories at Chadron and Kearney

Not Overnight

"We anticipate the housing shortage will continue," Dr Decker said, "because you can't build dormitories overnight. Construction is lagging behind enrollment increases."

The normal board report indicated the most serious housing shortage presently exists at Wayne, where 1,507 students occupied rooms designed for 1,160 this semester Two dormitories were filled to more than 148% capacity, and another was filled to 129% capacity.

Kearney had 1,569 students in rooms for 1,550, Chadron had 822 in rooms for 777, and Peru had 596 in rooms for 575.

U.S. FORCES WOULD BE 400,000 FOR DESIRED 5-1 ADVANTAGE

Saigon (UPI) — American troop strength in South Viet Nam will have to approach 400,000 if U.S. generals are ever to achieve their goal of outnumbering the Viet Cong five to one.

This ratio has been a kind of will-of-the-wisp, which American reinforcements and Vietnamese recruiting officers have fruitlessly pursued for the past 18 months.

The communist Viet Cong now number about 220,000, according to American intelligence officers. It would require 1.1 million men to outnumber the guerrillas by five to one, but allied strength now stands at only 850,000.

The long-desired ratio is a compromise from the figure of 12 or even 15 to 1, which guerrilla warfare experts have always urged as necessary for wiping out an insurgent war.

The generals in Viet Nam has steadily reduced this figure in their private calculations.

The Vietnamese army did outnumber the Viet Cong by 5 to 1 in the spring of 1964. The ratio has slipped steadily downward since then and American troops have been poured in to fill the gap.

When American combat troops began arriving here last spring, their commanders did not expect them to become as numerous as they are now, with 160,000 men in the country and more on the way.

But neither did they reckon with the steadily swelling strength of the Viet Cong.

American and Vietnamese planners lowered their sights to a ratio of 5 to 1 in early 1964. Until then they had hoped for better odds, but Vietnamese military strength had already dropped to that ratio, with 520,000 Vietnamese soldiers facing 105,000 Viet Cong.

By the summer of 1964 it became obvious that a vast increase in government strength would be needed to keep the odds from getting worse.

The Viet Cong had increased in number to 140,000 men and it was at this point that plans were made with American approval to build the Vietnamese armed forces to 700,000 by the end of 1965, getting the ratio back to five-to-one.

But something had to be done to preserve the ratio in the meantime, and that something was American reinforcements. They began arriving in the spring.

Herrington Approved For Post

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Fred A Herrington, former state tax commissioner, officially started his coordinating and consulting duties for the Lincoln Opportunity Team Wednesday with the approval of the Department of Defense

Chamber of Commerce President Thomas R. Pansing reported to the Mayor's Advisory Committee meeting that he had been notified by Col. George Kelly of the Defense Department that hiring Herrington as a consultant and his salary of $60 per day up to $1,000 per month paid by the federal government had been authorized.

Herrington was directed to start making staff arrangements and prepare a proposed outline for working with the Lincoln Opportunity Team committees He will be responsible to Mayor Dean Petersen and Airport Authority Chairman Fred Eiche

Pansing also reported that Strategic Air Command declaration of excess, the first step in releasing Lincoln Air Force Base for city acquisition, would be received by Dec. 15, according to Kelly.

Screened

The declaration of excess then would be screened by the Air Force by Jan. 1, held by the Department of Defense until Feb. 15 to clear, sent to Congress by April 1 for the 30-day required hold, and then start a route through the General Services Administration processes by July 1

Kelly told Pansing that the declaration of excess easily could be speeded up as much as three months if requested by the city Pansing added that with this timetable the Air Force would have to remain on the base until July 1

Save lists of base property which the Airport Authority, Job Corps sponsors and Nebraska Air National Guard have submitted in an attempt to prevent removal would be acted upon "item by item" by the Air Force by the first of the year, Pansing announced.

He also reported that he was told four sets of lawyers are studying the lease between the City of Lincoln and the federal government Preliminary reports seem to indicate that the lease is transferable to the Job Corps or any other federal activity, according to Kelly

The city and Airport Authority had hoped to obtain all of the city-owned land under the lease to produce revenue to support aviation

Not A Federal Activity

However, one member of the mayor's committee pointed out that Job Corps would not be a federal activity in that a private corporation — the University of Nebraska and Northern Natural Gas as Jobco would be contracting with the government to provide services

It was also emphasized that any lessee has the obligation of runway maintenance

Reporting on status of the housing at the base, Pansing told the committee Kelly had said it appeared "very unlikely" there is any way to get the houses free of their mortgages, which average approximately $8,500 per unit.

The mayor's committee members moved to start Lincoln Opportunity Team committees functioning, considering alternatives for use of the air base if the Job Corps is not established and long-range plans

Procedures for committee work are scheduled to be determined at the next advisory meeting and formally presented to the full team and committee members at a later date

Preliminary investigation of production of a brochure and advertisements publicizing the air base vacancy and need for customers also was authorized by the committee. Chamber Manager John Fraker offered to outline such material that would go to industrial and educational prospects throughout the nation.

Mayor Petersen Has Flu, But Is 'Doing Very Well'

Mayor Dean Petersen was reported "doing very well" Wednesday after being hospitalized late Tuesday with what doctors described as a mild case of flu

Petersen was taken to the hospital as a precaution against complications and to rest, according to his secretary Mrs Laura Otto No visitors or telephone calls were being allowed Wednesday

Hospitalization was expected to last only a few days, according to doctors, and it was reported that the mayor was hoping to be able to ride in the Christmas parade here Saturday

Lancaster District Judge Elmer Scheele Wednesday sentenced a professional roller skater to two years in the Nebraska Penal Complex on a charge of assault with intent to commit sodomy.

$80,000 Organ Donated To NWU

Mrs. Charles N. Cadwallader, of Lincoln and New Orleans, has donated an $80,000 Aeolian-Skinner organ for Nebraska Wesleyan University.

Mrs. Cadwallader

Mrs Cadwallader presented the gift for installation in the new $1.2 million auditorium-fine arts center soon to be finished at Nebraska Wesleyan.

The organ will be known as the "Cadwallader Organ."

Mrs. Cadwallader said she made the gift for two reasons:

"As an alumna, I thought this gift would be a token of my loyalty and support and an expression of my faith in the future of Nebraska Wesleyan.

"It is also a tangible expression of my interest in the cultural emphasis which will result from the construction of this new building. I have always had a love and deep appreciation of music and fine arts and felt this fine organ would lend a new and fresh quality to the training of musical artists and provide a source of enjoyment and entertainment for the campus community and the entire city of Lincoln."

NWU President Vance Rogers said the organ will be one of the finest in the Midwest.

On Platform

It will be installed at the rear of the stage area of the auditorium on a platform seven feet above stage level The platform will be 48 feet long and seven feet deep, capable of supporting seven tons, the weight of the pipes.

Dedication ceremonies are planned for April 26, 966

Mrs. Cadwallader is a church leader, philanthropist and world traveler. She was awarded an honorary doctor of humane letters degree at NWU's Founders Day Convocation last February.

Mrs Cadwallader attended Nebraska Wesleyan in 1913-14 She is a member of the board of trustees of the World Methodist Council, St Paul's School of Theology Methodist, Scarritt College Centenary College and the Women's planning committee of International Christian University of Japan.

Help For Retarded Drop-Outs Eyed

. . . MAYOR'S COMMITTEE, EDUCATORS MEET

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Three members of the Lincoln Board of Education met with the Mayor's Advisory Committee on mental retardation Wednesday and agreed to report to the committee names of students who drop out or are dropped from school due to mental incapacity.

Members of the mayor's committee requested the report so that contact with the children and their parents could be attempted in an effort to keep the students in some kind of training program until they are old enough for vocational rehabilitation.

We are losing too many children who drop out of school" committee chairman Mrs Lawrence Enersen explained We want to keep track" of the students and refer them to other kinds of help she said

Concerned

Mrs Enersen told Board of Education members and administrative personnel that the committee is very concerned about children, usually about 14 years old, who drop out of school from lack of interest or who are dropped from public school special education due to inability to keep up with the work

The mentally retarded students cannot be taken into Goodwill training programs or start work until they are 16 she emphasized

Verlin Boldry of the Goodwill Industries was appointed liaison between the mayor's committee and Dr. Julius Humann, director of special education for the Lincoln schools, to keep the groups informed on each others activities

Persons at the joint meeting also discussed attempts to lower the minimum IQ level for public school attendance We're throwing people in the handicap category that are making it normally in other states" Mrs Enersen declared Protesting the elimination of children from public school for low IQs, Mrs. Enersen warned 'We're not going to have the vocational education area at the new East High School filled if we are going to exclude so many of the candidates at the primary level"

Little Encouragement

Members of the mayor's committee also proposed that the public schools initiate, in addition to its educable mentally handicapped classes, programs for mentally retarded children but found little encouragement from Supt. Steven Watkins and other school officials

Watkins declared that a program for mentally retarded children would be "almost prohibitive in terms of cost" which he estimated to be $2,200-$2,500 per student each year

Even for the special education programs, "the state never meets its quota" of support as required by law, the superintendent reported. "Last year we received about half the amount we should have," he said.

Board President Robert Wekesser suggested that such programs "might be done better on an area-wide basis," noting that education of the mentally retarded is an "infinitesimal part of the total school program"

However, Mrs Enersen said she felt Lincoln and Lancaster County residents "can afford to take care of our own people It is a matter of finding out how to do it"

Committee members also asked Watkins and the School Board if more pre-counseling before a student is excluded from school due to mental incapacity might be feasible. Dr. Humann assured the advisory group that as much parental contact as possible would be pursued.

COED
is a bride-elect

The engagement of Miss Linda Jean White, daughter of Mrs. Fred H. White and the late Mr. White, to Richard J. Dours, son of Mr. and Mrs. Felix J. Dours of New Orleans, La., is announced today, the bride-elect's 21st birthday, by her mother.

A late summer wedding is planned.

Miss White is a senior at Nebraska Wesleyan University where she is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority.

TALK of the town

There is talk of Thanksgiving guests, of course -and there is talk of a wedding which takes place a week from Saturday—And we'll begin with the guests—

Coming from Omaha this morning to attend the game will be Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Williams (Mary Jean Neely) and their two sons, David and Johnny. Mr. and Mrs. Williams and their family will be accompanied by Mr. Williams' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Williams, and his brother, Michael Williams, also of Omaha.

The visitors will be the guests of Mrs. Hugh Williams' parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. Marshall Neely, and following the game Dr. and Mrs. Neely will be host and hostess to the family at Thanksgiving dinner.

But as a matter of fact there is a little more to the dinner than a holiday affair—It is to be a double birthday celebration--and the celebrants are David Williams, who will be 11 years old—and Mrs. Neely. The birthdays are not on the same day, however—One of them is on Nov. 24, and the other is on Nov. 27, but each year both are honored on an in-between date.

* * *

And we hear that Miss Linda Osborn is in town. Miss Osborn, who is a student at Colorado State University at Ft. Collins, is spending the Thanksgiving weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Osborn.

* * *

That wedding date we mentioned belongs to Miss Janice Walt and Lt. Thomas Poggemeyer whose marriage will be solemnized at St. Matthews Church, Episcopal.

This morning Miss Walt makes announcement of the bridal entourage which includes Mrs. Gary Walker, who will be her sister's matron of honor; bridesmatron, Mrs. David Myers, and bridesmaids Miss Cheryl Warden of Fremont, and Miss Mary Morrow. Deborah Walker is to be the flower girl.

James Poggemeyer of Nebraska City will serve his brother as best man, and the corps of ushers will be Craig Colburn of Seward; Garl Walker, Dave Zweig, Gary Sup and Larry Bornschlegl.

PARTY
honors Miss Laura Armour, Brad Cook

Out of town guests are an exciting incentive for any party, but it was extra fun last evening when Miss Laura Armour and Brad Cook, both of Chicago, were the honored guests—and when Mr. Cook's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel W. Cook, III, of St. Louis, Mo., were on the hostess list.

The party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schorr, III, and, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Cook, the other hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Sidles and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Howey.

Miss Armour and Mr. Cook, whose marriage will be solemnized in January, are the game and Thanksgiving weekend guests of Mr. Cook's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Cook and their very young son, Daniel Wolford Cook, IV, will be Thanksgiving guests of Mr. Cook's parents.

DEAR ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Last week I lost my keys. They were all on a key case and my identification was inside. The next day I received a telephone call from a woman asking if I had lost something. I told her yes, my keys. She said, "Well, I have them. I found them in my husband's pocket." Then she began to ask me all sorts of questions about how I knew her husband. I told her I was a married woman and didn't know her husband, but she didn't believe me. Then she said if I wanted my keys I would have to come to her house to "talk things over."

I needed the keys so I told her that my husband and I would be there at the appointed time. We went to this old, dilapidated house and a man answered the door, handed me my keys and slammed the door. The woman was nowhere in sight. Now I am getting threatening phone calls from this woman at all hours, accusing and harassing me. I don't want trouble, but what can I do? She knows my name, address and phone number.

FEELING UNEASY

DEAR FEELING: If she bothers you, notify the police and tell them the whole story.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: As a nursing supervisor in a hospital, may I make a plea? Well-meaning friends and business associates send huge floral arrangements and plants to hospital patients without realizing what an inconvenience their generosity can create. There comes a point when a room simply cannot hold another bouquet. Then the embarrassing decision must be made. What flowers to "banish." Whose feelings will be hurt when it is discovered? My plea is for smaller, but more artistic, arrangements. Or, why not send a plant to the home to greet the patient on his return? And if a long convalescence is in the offing, colleagues could confer so that fresh flowers arrived every few days.

Sincerely,

AN R. N. IN SEATTLE

DEAR R.N.: Your plea makes sense, and I hope it's heeded. And while we're pleading, may I add the suggestion that only lightly scented (or virtually odorless) flowers be sent to hospitals.

Opening lead — king of hearts.

When you are declarer it frequently happens that one opponent is far more dangerous to have in the lead than the other. As a result, you try to shape the play of such hands so as to keep the dangerous opponent out of the lead.

Here is a typical example. Let's say you're declarer at five diamonds and West leads a heart, which you win with the ace. It is obvious at once that there is a possibility of losing two spades and a club, so you start to think in terms of how to prevent this from happening

If West has the ace of spades, you say to yourself, there is nothing to worry about, so you commence your thinking by assuming that East has the ace. Since you have to lose a club in any case, what you would like to do is arrange to lose it to East, who can do you no harm

In line with this, you therefore cash the Q-J of diamonds and lead a club If West follows low, you plan to play the nine, losing the trick to East, who cannot successfully lead spades. Note that in the actual hand this play makes the contract for you.

However, let's say that West inserts the ten when you lead toward the A-K-9 In that case you win the trick with the king, ruff a heart, and lead another club West is forced to play low —otherwise you lose no clubs —and you now finesse the nine, forcing East to win with the queen.

East is helpless, which he actually was from the time when West made the opening lead, and you make five diamonds In effect, your mission is accomplished by evasive action.

Program

An orientation program, under the direction of Miss Agnes Arthaud, will be presented for new members of the Altrusa Club Monday evening when the organization will meet for a 6 30 o'clock dinner at the Pioneer Apts., 1130 H.

New members to be initiated are Mrs. Elizabeth Averill, Mrs. C. V. Jewett, Mrs. Ben Meyer, Miss Helen Snyder, Miss Martha Weaver and Miss Janet Wilson

The program also will include a film, "To Live Beyond Yourself."

COED
is autumn bride

For the wedding of Miss Cheri Williamson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Williamson, and Gale G. Ganshorn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ganshorn of Beaver Crossing, which took place Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 24, pompon and Fuji chrysanthemums in autumn shades decorated the altar of St. James Methodist Church. The service was solemnized by the Rev. Clarence Campbell, and Mrs. F. G. Adams, organist, played the wedding music and accompanied Joe Miller, vocal soloist.

Period frocks fashioned with bodices of bronze-toned brocade and slim skirts of amber crepe were worn by Miss Janet West, who was the maid of honor, and the bridesmaids, Miss Jolene Eden and Miss Linda Millstead. Each carried a single bronze chrysanthemum.

Serving Mr. Ganshorn as best man was Roger Wurst, and the ushers were Terry Barth of Friend, and Elvin Bristol, Waco.

The bride chose ivory brocade for her sheath gown. A high throatline contoured the long-sleeved basque, and the slim lines of the skirt were emphasized by an overskirt of the brocade which continued into an aisle-wide train. Her silk illusion veil was held by a crown of lace and pearls, and she carried a cascade arrangement of yellow roses.

Mr. Ganshorn and his bride, who is a student at the University of Nebraska, will make their home in Lincoln.

Courtesies

A series of recent courtesies has honored a bride of the near future, Miss Judith Waples, whose marriage to David L. McCalla will be an event of Friday, Dec. 10.

Miss Waples was presented a linen shower on Wednesday, Nov. 17, when Mrs. Porter King and Mrs. Warren Dutton were hostesses at the home of Mrs. King.

Sunday afternoon, Nov. 7, Mrs. Martin Cunningham and Mrs. Elmer Yates entertained a group of guests at the home of Mrs. Yates. During the party, a miscellaneous shower was presented to the bride-to-be.

Miss Waples has announced that her wedding will take place at an 8 o'clock evening service, at Bethany Christian Church.

U.S.-China Talk Said Inevitable

. . . ON DISARMING

Washington (AP)—A citizens panel is advising President Johnson to negotiate directly with Red China on disarmament. In the long run, the committee says, such a dialogue with Peking will be inevitable.

The committee's report, made available Wednesday, will be submitted at the White House Conference on International Cooperation opening Monday. The conference was called by Johnson in October last year "to search and explore and canvass and thoroughly discuss every conceivable approach and avenue of cooperation that could lead to peace."

The committee on arms control and disarmament is headed by Dr. Jerome B. Wiesner, dean of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and former science assistant to the President. It is one of 30 committees of experts formed in 1964 to prepare special reports for the conference.

The Wiesner committee's report also —Recommended a nonaggression pact between the Atlantic Alliance and the Warsaw Pact nations.

Cautioned against the creation of a new nuclear force for the Western alliance.

—Suggested a three-year moratorium on the emplacement of anti-missile systems, and —Called for parallel reduction of American and Soviet troops in Germany to reduce the cost and strain.

The suggestion that the United States talk directly with Communist China on disarmament came in the wake of a U.N. resolution calling for a world disarmament conference that would include Red China. The United States voted for the resolution.

Bilateral Talks

The committee's report said Wiesner and the former members believe it is absolutely necessary to open bilateral talks on arms controls with Peking and also to explore the possibility of bringing Communist China into the United Nations.

"We see no point in delay," the report said.

A nonaggression pact between NATO and the Warsaw Treaty powers, the report says, would recognize the existing situation, meaning that no changes in Europe can be accomplished by force but only by mutual agreement.

The moratorium between the United States and the Soviet Union would affect only the deployment, or emplacement, of missile killer systems and not research or development, the report proposes.

Russians Didn't Cut N-Output

Washington (UPI) — The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) Wednesday said there is "no evidence" that Russia has carried out cutbacks in the nuclear materials field which it announced in 1964.

The 1964 Soviet announcement was made simultaneously with similar U.S. and British declarations. But diplomats never considered this a formal agreement.

The Soviet delcaration was made April 20, 1964, by then Premier Nikita S. Khruschev.

He said Russia would (1) "stop straightaway" the construction of two large reactors for plutonium production, (2) "during the next few years" substantially reduce production of uranium 235 for nuclear weapons, and (3) allocate more fissionable materials for peaceful uses.

On the same day President Johnson announced a cutback in U.S. production of enriched uranium. The British government said it already had begun similar cutbacks.

The three statements were hailed at the time as a disarmament step by "mutual example—that is, there was no three-way agreement but each country informed the other what it was doing in the way of cuts.

Tuesday, in a speech in Seattle, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., raised for the first time the question whether the Russians have lived up to Khruschev's statement.

Jackson said Khrushchev's successors, the government of Premier Alexei Kosygin, "apparently do not feel bound by that promise, for we have received no similar assurances from them. Nor have they given any indication that production is actually being reduced — from their statements and actions the opposite seems to be true."

26 Ask Suspension

Self-Inflicted Burns Fatal To Coed, 22

West Chester, Pa. (AP)—Patricia Ann Conway, 22-year-old coed, died Wednesday, less than 24 hours after she set fire to her gasoline-drenched clothing on the campus of West Chester State College.

Miss Conway, a junior majoring in elementary education, suffered second and third degree burns on the upper part of her body.

As the reports from the hospital told of her steadily deteriorating condition, authorities sought to determine why the girl, who lived in nearby Phoenixville, wanted to take her own life.

She had not seemed disturbed about anything during a class that finished 25 minutes before she was found in flames Wednesday, said the teacher, Miss Irene Shure, an associate professor of social studies.

Her parents, Joseph F. and Mary A. Conway, said they knew no reason she would want to harm herself.

But the dean of students, Dr. Jack Owens, advanced a theory that she was disturbed about an on-and-off romance and her concern, "because of her deep religious feeling that she might have hurt a human being."

Miss Conway, before lapsing into unconsciousness Tuesday night, was quoted by doctors and nurses at the hospital as saying, "I did it because of my love of God. I did it because of a personal thing."

Communist Student Leads Balloting For Berkeley Rules Committee

Berkeley, Calif. (AP)—Bettina Aptheker, admitted Communist and a leader of last year's Free Speech Movement at the University of California, was elected Wednesday to the important new campus rules committee.

The 21-year-old history major led all candidates for first place votes.

The committee was created by new Chancellor Roger W. Heyns to advise him on revision of student conduct rules, which he said are inadequate to insure campus self-discipline.

It will consist of three undergraduates, two graduates, four faculty members and one member of the administration.

The controversial political organization, Slate and the Graduate Coordinating Committee virtually swept the week-long ballot in which delegates to a constitutional convention were also elected. Two-thirds of the 37 undergraduates and 23 graduates elected to the convention were supported by Slate or the Graduate Coordinating Committee which supported last year's turbulent Free Speech Movement.

Only 5,900 of the 27,000 students on the Berkeley campus participated in the voting, which closed Tuesday. Votes for each candidate were not announced.

The student newspaper, the Daily Californian, had reported many students complained that the ballot was too long and complicated.

Miss Aptheker announced at the start of the campaign that she had been a member of the Communist Party for three years and intended to remain one. She is the daughter of Herbert Aptheker of New York City, one of the party's leading theoreticians.

Miss Aptheker took the position that "legality of speech or advocacy shall be determined by the courts, not by the administration."

U.S.-China Talk Said Inevitable

. . . ON DISARMING

Washington (AP)—A citizens' panel is advising President Johnson to negotiate directly with Red China on disarmament. In the long run, the committee says, such a dialogue with Peking will be inevitable.

The committee's report, made available Wednesday, will be submitted at the White House Conference on International Cooperation opening Monday. The conference was called by Johnson in October last year "to search and explore and canvass and thoroughly discuss every conceivable approach and avenue of cooperation that could lead to peace."

The committee on arms control and disarmament is headed by Dr. Jerome B. Wiesner, dean of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and former science assistant to the President. It is one of 30 committees of experts formed in 1964 to prepare special reports for the conference.

The Wiesner committee's report also:

—Recommended a nonaggression pact between the Atlantic Alliance and the Warsaw Pact nations;

—Cautioned against the creation of a new nuclear force for the Western alliance;

—Suggested a three-year moratorium on the emplacement of anti-missile systems, and

—Called for parallel reduction of American and Soviet troops in Germany to reduce the cost and strain.

The suggestion that the United States talk directly with Communist China on disarmament came in the wake of a U.N. resolution calling for a world disarmament conference that would include Red China. The United States voted for the resolution.

Bilateral Talks

The committee's report said Wiesner and the former members believe it is absolutely necessary to open bilateral talks on arms controls with Peking and also to explore the possibility of bringing Communist China into the United Nations.

"We see no point in delay," the report said.

A nonaggression pact between NATO and the Warsaw Treaty powers, the report says, would recognize the existing situation, meaning that no changes in Europe can be accomplished by force but only by mutual agreement.

The moratorium between the United States and the Soviet Union would affect only the deployment, or emplacement, of missile killer systems and not research or development, the report proposes.

Russians Didn't Cut N-Output

Washington (UPI) — The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) Wednesday said there is "no evidence" that Russia has carried out cutbacks in the nuclear materials field which it announced in 1964.

The 1964 Soviet announcement was made simultaneously with similar U.S. and British declarations. But diplomats never considered this a formal agreement.

The Soviet delcaration was made April 20, 1964, by then Premier Nikita S. Khruschev.

He said Russia would (1) "stop straightaway" the construction of two large reactors for plutonium production, (2) "during the next few years" substantially reduce production of uranium 235 for nuclear weapons, and (3) allocate more fissionable materials for peaceful uses.

On the same day President Johnson announced a cutback in U.S. production of enriched uranium. The British government said it already had begun similar cutbacks.

The three statements were hailed at the time as a disarmament step by "mutual example—that is, there was no three-way agreement but each country informed the other what it was doing in the way of cuts.

Tuesday, in a speech in Seattle, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., raised for the first time the question whether the Russians have lived up to Khruschev's statement.

Jackson said Khrushchev's successors, the government of Premier Alexei Kosygin, "apparently do not feel bound by that promise, for we have received no similar assurances from them. Nor have they given any indication that production is actually being reduced — from their statements and actions the opposite seems to be true."

26 Ask Suspension

Self-Inflicted Burns Fatal To Coed, 22

West Chester, Pa. (AP)—Patricia Ann Conway, 22-year-old coed, died Wednesday, less than 24 hours after she set fire to her gasoline-drenched clothing on the campus of West Chester State College.

Miss Conway, a junior majoring in elementary education, suffered second and third degree burns on the upper part of her body.

As the reports from the hospital told of her steadily deteriorating condition, authorities sought to determine why the girl, who lived in nearby Phoenixville, wanted to take her own life.

She had not seemed disturbed about anything during a class that finished 25 minutes before she was found in flames Wednesday, said the teacher, Miss Irene Shure, an associate professor of social studies.

Her parents, Joseph F. and Mary A. Conway, said they knew no reason she would want to harm herself.

But the dean of students, Dr. Jack Owens, advanced a theory that she was disturbed about an on-and-off romance and her concern, "because of her deep religious feeling that she might have hurt a human being."

Miss Conway, before lapsing into unconsciousness Tuesday night, was quoted by doctors and nurses at the hospital as saying, "I did it because of my love of God. I did it because of a personal thing."

Communist Student Leads Balloting For Berkeley Rules Committee

Berkeley, Calif. (AP)—Bettina Aptheker, admitted Communist and a leader of last year's Free Speech Movement at the University of California, was elected Wednesday to the important new campus rules committee.

The 21-year-old history major led all candidates for first place votes.

The committee was created by new Chancellor Roger W. Heyns to advise him on revision of student conduct rules, which he said are inadequate to insure campus self-discipline.

It will consist of three undergraduates, two graduates, four faculty members and one member of the administration.

The controversial political organization, Slate, and the Graduate Coordinating Committee virtually swept the week-long ballot in which delegates to a constitutional convention were also elected. Two-thirds of the 37 under graduates and 23 graduates elected to the convention were supported by Slate or the Graduate Coordinating Committee which supported last year's turbulent Free Speech Movement.

Only 5,900 of the 27,000 students on the Berkeley campus participated in the voting, which closed Tuesday. Votes for each candidate were not announced.

The student newspaper, the Daily Californian, had reported many students complained that the ballot was too long and complicated.

Miss Aptheker announced at the start of the campaign that she had been a member of the Communist Party for three years and intended to remain one. She is the daughter of Herbert Aptheker of New York City, one of the party's leading theoreticians.

Miss Aptheker took the position that "legality of speech or advocacy shall be determined by the courts, not by the administration."

Brazil Urges Peace Council

Rio de Janeiro (UPI)—Brazil Wednesday proposed creation of an inter-American peace council to resolve hemispheric disputes.

The proposal, made to the second special Inter-American conference, called for the council to be composed of the foreign ministers of the Organization of American States (OAS).

In order to be able to act quickly to head off or resolve disputes, the OAS council would be constituted as the peace council. It could be asked to act by a majority vote of OAS members on any member's petition. The council's recommendations would require a two-thirds vote to enact.

The foreign ministers, meanwhile, buckled down to a study of ways and means of modernizing their parent body the OAS, without crippling its functions. The job was put in the hands of a working commission presided over by Mexican Foreign Minister Antonio Carrillo Flores.

Flores and Colombian Foreign Minister Alfredo Vazquez Carrizosa agreed Wednesday on a suggestion that while the streamlining of the OAS mechanism is under way, a second parallel organization should function in its place during the transition period.

The charter for the present OAS was drafted in Bogota, Colombia, in 1948 and it has not been modified since. Flores and Vazquez suggested that the interim commission set up could well become the "new-look" OAS when the task of revising the original charter is completed, hopefully in 1966.

The United States meanwhile proposed creation of an inter-American export promotion agency to spur Latin American trade at the present conference.

The U.S. resolution to this effect was presented shortly after the departure from Rio of Secretary of State Dean Rusk. He returned to Washington, with brief stopovers in Asuncion, Paraguay, and the Canal Zone, in Panama leaving the U.S. delegation in the care of roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman.

Pope Worried By Red Threat To Latin States

Vatican City (UPI)—Pope Paul VI has expressed deep concern over the threat of "atheistic Marxism" to the traditionally Catholic Latin American countries.

He urged the Catholic Church to pledge itself to the achievement of social justice for all Latin Americans. Among other things, he suggested the church should place nonessential land holdings at the disposition of the needy.

The Pope's statements came in a 5,000-word address to members of the Latin American Episcopal Council Tuesday. The text was published Wednesday in the Vatican City newspaper Osservatore Romano.

The Pope told his audience that he attentively followed developments in Latin America "and not without apprehension."

He said Latin America was a society in the process of "profound and rapid change" in which "dangerous operative forces . . . come to disrupt the religious and moral unity of the social order maintained with difficulty until now."

"Atheistic marxism" was the most dangerous of these disruptive forces, he said.

He said it "determines doctrinal and practical atheism, promotes and prepares violent revolution as the only means of solving problems."

In his extensive analysis of the problems confronting the church in Latin America, the Pope said not the least was the population explosion.

California Faces Soggy Thanksgiving

Los Angeles (AP)—Southern California faced a soggy Thanksgiving holiday Wednesday night. The fourth heavy storm in two weeks churned in from the Pacific with an estimated three more inches of rain for a countryside already scarred by mud slides and flash floods.

Eight persons, five of them identified, have perished in Southern California and five others were killed just across the border in Tijuana, Mexico, during the disastrous series of storms.

The usually dry area already had more than 11 inches of rain this season which began July 1—compared with a normal to date of 1.45 inches—but there is no respite in sight.

The Weather Bureau said a "more vigorous" storm is brewing just off the coast. It was expected to dump two to three inches of rain on Los Angeles, and greater amounts in the mountains ringing the metropolitan basin by Thursday night. A half inch fell Wednesday morning, then tapered off into scattered showers.

Rainfall will continue at least through Monday, the bureau said.

Meantime, in northern California, snow fell at the rate of an inch an hour, cutting visibility to zero and snarling Thanksgiving Eve traffic. Chains were ordered on Interstate 80 over 7,135-foot Donner Summit leading to Nevada. Two feet of snow have been recorded in two days.

"This is a very sad moment. We have seldom if ever experienced such a wonderful three weeks. We hope we can come back again soon."

Building Unit To Study 15th St. Site For Offices

The Capitol Building Commission Wednesday agreed to meet with a Lincoln group of businessmen interested in a 15th St. location for the proposed State Office Building.

Gov. Frank Morrison, commission chairman, said no funds are available for land acquisition, but the possibility of a 15th St. site being made available to the state should be explored.

The commission agreed with Morrison that the proposed office building should be located "across the street" from the Capitol (east, south or west) or "on 15th to enhance the mall setting between the Capitol and the University of Nebraska."

Morrison said the Lincoln group was headed by Thomas C. Woods Jr., president of the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co.

In other action, the commission voted to approach the Department of Aeronautics about moving from the Capitol to make needed space available for the Department of Administrative Services' new data processing equipment.

The commission was told the Aeronautics Department wants to move to the General Aviation Building at Lincoln Municipal Airport if funds can be made available.

Sen. Harold Stryker of Rising City said he would poll the Legislature's Budget Committee about informal permission for a deficit expenditure for the department.

Administrative Services Director Willard Townsend said the Banking Department is unwilling to move unless actually ordered from the building.

He estimated the department's outside rental cost at $15,000 for approximately 18 months.

Townsend said a space decision must be made shortly if an April 1 deadline for the computer operation is to be met.

The commission said the Banking Department would be moved out if funds cannot be found to move the Aeronautics Department or if airport office space is not available.

In other action, the commission:

—authorized a review of University to Nebraska electric rates to the Capitol in line with production costs.

—were advised a late January letting on the Department of Roads' new office building at 14th and Burnham is anticipated.

—appointed Linus Burr Smith, board member, and Charles Fowler and Ken Johnson, engineer and architect with the Department of Roads, as a coordinating committee for the new State Laboratory Building on the University's east campus.

2 Men To Be Sentenced In Obscene Article Case

One Lincoln man pleaded guilty and another entered a nolo contendere plea in Lancaster District Court Wednesday to charges of circulating obscene articles.

Donald Elfeldt, 45, of 616 Peach, pleaded guilty to circulating obcene photographs, and Sterling Maus, 38, of 441 Broadview, pleaded nolo contendere and was found guilty by Lancaster District Judge Elmer Scheele.

Judge Scheele deferred sentencing pending investigation by the adult probation officer, and set bond at $2,000 each.

The "high-grade" misdemeanor charge carries a maximum penalty of $1,000 fine or one year in jail or both.

The two men were arrested Tuesday in connection with what a postal inspector described as one of the largest hauls of pornographic material he had ever seen.

Two More U.S. School Money Applications OKd

The second and third approved applications for federal educational funds were announced by the state Department of Education.

Ogallala and Verdigre were granted money under the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Education Act, Jack Kreuger, state director of federal programs, said.

Ogallala received $4,000 to be used in a remedial reading program and $1,10C for a speech therapy project.

Nearly 150 Ogallala children will take part in the speech project, including students from parochial schools, who also come under the federal grant.

Verdigre was given $12,957 for a remedial reading program which will instruct 92 students in better comprehension techniques.

Kreuger said two other applications are pending, and will probably be awarded Monday.

Earlier this month, Niobrara school district was awarded the first grant under the new federal law. It totaled $17,775.

'Day Of Prayer, Joy' Proclaimed By Morrison

Gov. Frank Morrison Wednesday proclaimed Thanksgiving Day "a day of prayer and joy and the giving of thanks—a day to seek divine guidance for the future which unfolds before us, day by day."

In his official Thanksgiving Day proclamation, the governor said:

"It is fitting that we set one day apart for the returning of thanks to God for the manifold blessings which He, in His gracious providence, has been pleased to confer upon us, both as a nation and as individuals.

"The people of Nebraska have abundant reason to be grateful for the continued health, peace and prosperity with which they have been blessed during the past year.

"While we enjoy the many blessings which the Almighty has showered upon us, we realize that there is still hunger, and want, and poverty in many parts of the world."

YMCA Model Legislature Convenes At Capitol Friday

The Senate Chamber of the Capitol will be buzzing with activity Friday when the 15th YMCA model legislature convenes at 10 a.m. The two-day session will end at 4:45 p.m. Saturday.

Some of the bills scheduled for argument in committee rooms and on the Senate floor are:

—An act requiring that fluoride be added to drinking water to provide for better dental health.

—An amendment to the state constitution providing for the appointment of the secretary of state, auditor of public accounts, state treasurer and state attorney general rather than their election.

—A bill changing the expiration date of drivers' license from Sept. 1 every odd numbered year to the birth date of the driver every two years.

—An act allowing the state to be liable for acts of negligence or omission on its behalf.

—A bill requiring persons to take ear, eye, and reaction tests at the time of drivers' license renewal.

More than 225 delegates will be involved in the argument of these bills. They have been researching and writing the proposed laws since September when they were selected by fellow Hi-Y Club members at their home YMCAs to be delegates to the model legislature.

First order of business for the mock state senators will be the election of a governor, lieutenant governor and chief justice. Candidates are J. C. Casper, Omaha Miller Park YMCA; Ralph Watt, Alliance Hi-Y Club, and George Witt Lincoln Southeast YMCA.

Each will make a three-minute speech before the delegates; the vote will follow. First Place vote getter becomes governor, second and third place finishers become lieutenant governor and chief justice respectively. The lieutenant governor will preside over the model legislature.

Others

Other officers will be Chris Jenkins, North Platte, clerk; Jim Reents, Lincoln, sergeant at-arms, and Jim Hristakos, Omaha, chaplain.

Committee chairmen will be Linda Switzer and Jeanne Adkins, North Platte; Don Riggs, McCook; Mary Jean Hall and Jim Pittenger, Lincoln; John Phelps, Grand Island; Ken Shaw, Randy Nogel, Nate Devereaux, Omaha; and Susie Haas, Ralston.

After Governor Morrison speaks, bills will be introduced and assigned to one of the 10 committees. Committee hearings will run until approximately 4 p.m. then action on bills will begin on the Senate floor.

However, legislative action will be interrupted by a banquet and governor's ball at 6:30 p.m. It will resume at 9 a.m. Saturday.

The governor of the model Legislature will be given an opportunity to review all bills passed, veto any he feels are not good and then deliver his veto message before adjournment.

Planners Turn Down 27th, South Zone Shift

A change of zone which would allow a service station to be built on the northwest corner of 27th and South was recommended for denial Wednesday by the City-County Planning Commission.

The request of Louis Svoboda and other petitioners, if granted, would have changed the zoning designation of the property from B-two family dwelling to G local business.

Commission Chairman E. J. Faulkner echoed the denial recommendation of the planning staff, saying that although use of the property under present zoning is limited, the commission should consider the adverse effect of a change of zone on the residential properties to the north and south of the three lots in question.

'No Public Need'

In his report to the commission, Planning Director Douglas Brogden further asked that the petition be denied on the basis "there is no public need for additional business uses in the general neighborhood" and that its approval would have an adverse effect on traffic at the 27th and South intersection.

Commission members also denied a change of zone from A-2 single family dwelling to K light industry, requested by George Corfield, for lots on the southwest corner of 48th and Hartley.

The zoning change was recommended for denial by the planning staff because the property, part of the proposed plat of A&H Industrial Park, could be used for off-street parking by special permit, and a change, if approved, would make it difficult to forestall similar action across 48th St.

Approved

A special permit requested by the Cornhusker Motor Club to construct an off-street parking lot on the southeast corner of 29th and P was approved by the commission.

Other business:

—County change of zone, requested by Merle's, Inc., from agricultural to commercial, on property located on the north side of O St. in Emerald, approved.

—Amendment to the zoning ordinance permitting the repair and maintenance of home and office equipment, electrical appliances and radio and television sets as approved uses for H-1 and H-2 highway business districts, approved.

—Preliminary and final plat for Silas Industrial Center, north of Fletcher and east of 56th extended, approved.

Leniency Impotent Against Increase

. . . IN BRITISH DOPE ADDICTION

London (AP) — Britain's lenient system of prescribing heroin and cocaine for addicts through local doctors has failed to curb "a disturbing rise" in drug addiction—especially among the young.

Reporting this Wednesday, a government committee recommended that prescription loopholes be tightened to keep excess supplies from new addicts.

It urged that confirmed addicts be treated only at special centers and be forced to continue through the difficult withdrawal period. Doctors who treated addicts without notifying the authorities would be guilty of a crime.

Policy Reversal

This represents a reversal of policy by the committee on drug addiction, which made its report to the minister of health. The group is headed by Lord Brain, former head of the Royal College of Physicians and a distinguished neurologist.

The British Medical Association, representing most of Britain's general practitioners, agreed the report depicted "a most disturbing situation" and said it is giving careful study to the committee's proposals. It described them as drastic.

Registered drug addicts in Britain still number only in the hundreds—miniscule compared with the problem in the United States. The British system has been studied by American authorities, and a team of investigators from New York recently recommended strongly against adopting it there.

Curing Prescription

Under British law, doctors are allowed to prescribe regular doses of drugs to addicts registered with the government while ostensibly trying to cure them. Unregistered addicts can be imprisoned.

There are no official figures for the number of unregistered addicts. The home office admits they are a problem.

During 1964, there were only 115 prosecutions for drug pushing and illegal addiction to heroin, cocaine and opium — a rise of 32 over the year before. This does not include convictions for marijuana, a drug not covered in the report.

The system of prescriptions for addicts was endorsed by the Brain committee when it first reported in 1961.

Deaths Are Attributed To Physician

Pontiac, Mich. (AP) — A staff physician of Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital apparently was responsible for a mixup in drugs which caused the postoperative deaths last week of three patients, the hospital administrator said Wednesday.

Administrator Harry Whitlow made the announcement as investigations of the deaths continued. He declined to identify the doctor.

Whitlow said the doctor "drained ether into a bottle presumably to dispose of it." The ether apparently was mistaken later for another drug and administered to the three patients, he said.

"Pouring ether into a bottle is strictly against the rules and regulations of the hospital," Whitlow said.

He said he did not know why the bottle was not later disposed of.

The deaths of Mrs. Lurea Covington, 24, of Pontiac; Kimberley Ann Bruneel, 8, of West Bloomfield Township, and William Michael Ketchum, 13, of Ferndale, are under investigation.

All three were given the same anesthesia before undergoing surgery. They died within 24 hours of each other.

Raul Goes Home After New Pact Signed In Russia

Moscow (UPI)—Cuban Deputy Prime Minister and Defense Minister Raul Castro left Moscow Wednesday after a prolonged stay that produced a new Soviet-Cuban agreement.

The agreement announced Tuesday calls for "further expansion of cooperation in economic and technical spheres". No further details were given.

NU IN KEY NATIONAL CONTEST

. . . Huskers Risk No. 3 National Ranking Against OU On TV

By The Associated Press

There won't be any turkey served in college football stadiums on Thanksgiving, but the traditional rivals on the fields will be trying to knock the stuffing out of one another.

In most of the games there won't be anything at stake but pride, but there's always plenty of that in such rivalries as Texas-Texas A&M, Cornell-Pennsylvania and Virginia Tech-VMI.

However, there will be more on the line at Lincoln, Neb., where Orange Bowl-bound Nebraska will take on Oklahoma in quest of its third straight Big Eight title and first undefeated season in half a century.

The Cornhuskers, 9-0, also will be risking their No. 3 ranking in the game to be shown on national television, NBC, starting at 12:45 p.m., CST.

Traditional battles continue on Saturday and feature the Army-Navy and Auburn-Alabama games.

The latter rivalry will be more heated than usual because the winner will be the Southeastern Conference champion. Alabama, No. 5, will take a 7-1-1 record into the clash at Birmingham, Ala., Auburn is 5-3-1. Auburn accepted a bid Wednesday to play in the Liberty Bowl at Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 18.

In other Thanksgiving games, Colorado State University is at Tulsa, and Bucknell meets Davidson in a night game at Charlotte, N.C.

The spotlight in Colorado State will be on Tulsa's 5-foot 1-10 pass-catching sensation, Howard Twilley. The runner-up for the Heisman Memorial Trophy needs four points to win the major college scoring crown and two TD receptions to break the season record of 15. He has 111 points this season.

The bowl merry-go-round starts spinning Friday night at Savannah, Ga., when McCook, Neb., plays Ferrum, Va., in the second annual National Junior College Bowl.

Other big games Saturday have Florida State at Florida, Georgia at Georgia Tech, Mississippi at Mississippi State, Vanderbilt at Tennessee, Baylor at Rice, Southern Methodist at Texas Christian Wyoming at Southern California, Boston College at Holy Cross and Notre Dame at Miami, Fla., at night.

NU Tops In Two Phases

New York (AP) — Michigan State's great defensive effort against Notre Dame not only solidified the Spartans' position among the nation' smajor college defense leaders, it shook up the offense standings as well.

State, the nation's leader in rushing defense and second-ranked in total defense, held Notre Dame to minus 12 yards running.

This effort removed Notre Dame as a threat to rushing leader Nebraska by dropping the Fighting Irish from second to ninth. Notre Dame's failure to score a touchdown against the Spartans dropped it from first to fifth in the scoring race. Nebraska now is the leader.

Statistics released Wednesday by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau showed that the Spartans' effort against Notre Dame's running was the finest by one major team against another in four years.

State's rushing allowance of just 45.6 yards a game this season also has been bettered only once in 18 years — Syracuse allowed opponents only 19.3 yards a game in 1959.

The statistics also revealed Tulsa leading in total offense and forward passing, Southern Mississippi first in total defense, Toledo first in pass defense and Texas No. 1 in punting.

Mike Garrett of Southern California has clinched the individual rushing crown with 1,328 yards in 243 carries and needs just 58 more yards against Wyoming Saturday to break Ollie Matson's career record of 3,166.

Missouri's Charlie Brown is 10th in rushing with 937 yards.

Tulsa's Howard Twilley has won the pass-receiving title with 115 catches. He must score four points against Colorado State Thursday to become the first end to win the scoring crown. He has 111 points to 114 for Syracuse's Floyd Little, who is through.

Other leaders are Stanford's Dave Lewis, punting; Larry Wachholtz of Nebraska, punt returns (29 for 442 yards); Eric Crabtree of Pittsburgh, kickoff returns, and Maryland's Bob Sullivan, interceptions.

McAdams To Play For OU

. . . ALL SOONER CRIPPLES TO BE IN UNIFORM

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Carl McAdams, the key to Oklahoma's defense and an All-American candidate, arrived in Lincoln Wednesday afternoon as part of the 40-man Sooner traveling squad and Husker stock dropped about one notch.

McAdams, an inspirational leader as well as a top defender from his linebacker post, was on the doubtful list until Wednesday morning for today's 12:45 p.m. contest against Nebraska.

The Sooner linebacker was injured in the Iowa State game and has been undergoing treatment for the sore ankle since. He missed the Missouri game in which the Tigers rolled to a 30-0 win and hadn't worked out for 16 days until Tuesday.

Oklahoma coach Gomer Jones had McAdams test the ankle in Tuesday's drill, then after having trainers give the ankle two treatments Tuesday night and Wednesday morning McAdams boarded the chartered plane with his teammates.

Jones indicated Wednesday afternoon that McAdams likely would not start, but that he would be available for action, a prospect that caused creases in foreheads of Husker coaches.

Another Sooner who had been on the doubtful list was tailback Ben Hart. Hart also made the trip and is expected to start. He has been slowed by a bruised instep.

Hart has been a versatile performer for the Sooners, seeing action as a runner, passer and pass receiver.

He is the Sooners' fourth leading rusher with 239 yards, has hit two of eight passes for 25 yards, has caught 12 passes for 115 yards and is also used on punt and kickoff returns.

Two other Oklahomans who are slowed by injuries are halfbacks Tommy Pannell and Ron Shotts, but both are expected to play.

The Sooners chief offensive threat is quarterback Gene Cagle, a sophomore who took over the signal-calling chores after Oklahoma lost its first three games.

Since then he has developed as the leading ball carrier with 320 yards on 76 carries and has completed 31 of 73 pass attempts for 355 yards. Cagle also leads in scoring with 24 points.

This year's Nebraska team will be trying to become the fifth Husker outfit to win three straight conference titles. The Huskers are assured of a tie with Missouri, but they need a win to claim the title all to themselves.

Only teams from Nebraska and Oklahoma have ever won more than two Big Eight titles in succession with Nebraska doing it four times and Oklahoma once, but the Oklahoma string was 12 straight.

Nebraska won four straight from 1914-17, three straight from 1921-23, three more from 1931-33, and three in a row from 1935-37.

The Huskers this year have found as many ways to win as you'll find in all the football books in the library. They have won with spectacular passing, long runs, defense and straight power football.

Coach Bob Devaney's crew has been able to give opponents fits with quarterbacks Fred Duda and Bob Churchich passing to ends Freeman White, Tony Jeter, and Dennis Richnafsky and to halfback Harry Wilson.

They have gotten lengthy runs from tiny fullback Frank Solich, who went 80 yards on the first play of the game for a TD against the Air Force.

And they have gotten stellar defensive play from the Black Shirts led by linebacker Mike Kennedy with All-American candidate Walt Barnes up front.

Nebraska has no incentive from a possible bowl bid. That was wrapped up two weeks ago with the Huskers meeting Alabama in Miami's Orange Bowl.

But they have the incentive of a chance at a third straight outright Big Eight title, an unbeaten season and the chance to show their wares before a national television audience—and in color.

Colts Seek 9th Straight; Buffalo Can Clinch Title

By Associated Press

Streaking Baltimore will try to make it nine in a row in the National Football League and Buffalo will attempt to clinch a division title in the American Football League in two important professional games on Thanksgiving Day.

Baltimore, gunning for a Jan. 2 title rematch with the defending champion Cleveland Browns, will be in Detroit to meet the Lions in their traditional holiday noon game. Green Bay used to draw the Detroit Thanksgiving date for years but the opponents have been rotated in recent years.

The Colts, leading Green Bay by one game, with four to play, can help themselves considerably with a second win in five days.

The Buffalo Bills, AFL defending champs, can assure themselves of another title game by beating the favored Chargers at San Diego in a contest that could be a preview of the league championship tilt.

All of the other pro action will be Sunday. The NFL program will find Cleveland, with a three-game lead and four to play, at Pittsburgh, Chicago at New York, Green Bay at Los Angeles, Philadelphia at St. Louis, San Francisco at Minnesota and Dallas at Washington.

There are only two Sunday games in the AFL, Boston at New York and Houston at Kansas City.

The Colts came out of their Philadelphia game last Sunday with many bruises and Lenny Moore missed practice Tuesday with a 101-degree temperature. Jimmy Orr, who made a dramatic return from the hospital to catch a touchdown pass against the Eagles, is considered a doubtful starter because of a shoulder injury. A sore leg makes Tony Lorick's status also doubtful.

When the two teams met Oct. 10, the Colts won 31-7 on three touchdown passes by Johnny Unitas, who threw for 319 yards.

The Baltimore-Detroit game will be seen on national television CBS at 11:15 a.m., CST. The Buffalo-San Diego game will be carried on network NBC at 3:30 p.m., CST.

Buffalo and San Diego will battle on a muddy field at 34,000-seat Balboa Stadium. The Bills lead New York by 3½ games in the Eastern Division and can wrap it up with a victory. The Chargers lead Oakland by one game in the West.

Although the Bills beat the Chargers last year in the title game 20-7, San Diego got even by clobbering Buffalo 34-3 Oct. 10 when John Hadl threw three touchdown passes.

When retiring Duke coach Bill Murray stepped down this week it came with considerable emotion.

He was giving up what he considered the best part of football coaching, his association with the players. He said so, noting the attachment a coach and player develop during their three years together as part of a unit.

When a coach retires something like this is emphasized, but it actually happens to a degree to every coach every year. And, while some coaches may use the I and some the T and some others something else, they all agree on the importance of this association.

There's still a bowl game to be played for Nebraska, but for the regular season there will be 14 seniors walking the graduation plank. Few senior football players have enjoyed so much over-all team success in their careers and, for a few of them, tremendous individual laurels.

Here's a capsule comment from Cornhusker coach Bob Devaney on those who will be playing their final home game Thursday against Oklahoma:

Larry Casey—"He's given us 100 per cent effort his three years as a member of the varsity squad, and except for an exceptional situation at end would have been a starter."

Freeman White — "Freeman has been a tremendous threat as a pass receiver the last two years."

Bill Haug—"Had he not been injured, Bill would have been a strong candidate for all-conference honors."

Duncan Drum — "Duncan's a boy who has contributed to our success the last three years both on offense and defense and as a kicker."

John Strohmyer — "The outstanding lineman in the 1964 Cotton Bowl game. He was hampered by injuries the early part of this season but he's made a strong comeback."

Walter Barnes — "Walt's the most outstanding defensive lineman we've had since coming to Nebraska."

Ted Vactor—"An all-conference defensive back in 1964, Ted's a fine tackler, who has been slowed down since he had his knee operation."

Tulane's O'Boyle Resigns As Head Football Coach

New Orleans, La. (AP)—Tommy O'Boyle, who last weekend found himself in the very situation he said a man shouldn't get into, quit Wednesday as Tulane's head football coach after four losing seasons.

O'Boyle succeeded Any Pilney, who quit after the 1961 season when Louisiana State smashed Tulane 62-0.

NU IN KEY NATIONAL CONTEST

. . . Huskers Risk No. 3 National Ranking Against OU On TV

By The Associated Press

There won't be any turkey served in college football stadiums on Thanksgiving, but the traditional rivals on the fields will be trying to knock the stuffing out of one another.

In most of the games there won't be anything at stake but pride, but there's always plenty of that in such rivalries as Texas-Texas A&M, Cornell-Pennsylvania and Virginia Tech-VMI.

However, there will be more on the line at Lincoln, Neb., where Orange Bowl-bound Nebraska will take on Oklahoma in quest of its third straight Big Eight title and first undefeated season in half a century.

The Cornhuskers, 9-0, also will be risking their No. 3 ranking in the game to be shown on national television, NBC, starting at 12:45 p.m., CST.

Traditional battles continue on Saturday and feature the Army-Navy and Auburn-Alabama games.

The latter rivalry will be more heated than usual because the winner will be the Southeastern Conference champion. Alabama, No. 5, will take a 7-1-1 record into the clash at Birmingham, Ala., Auburn is 5-3-1. Auburn accepted a bid Wednesday to play in the Liberty Bowl at Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 18.

In other Thanksgiving games, Colorado State University is at Tulsa, and Bucknell meets Davidson in a night game at Charlotte, N.C.

The spotlight in Colorado State will be on Tulsa's 5-foot 1-10 pass-catching sensation, Howard Twilley. The runner-up for the Heisman Memorial Trophy needs four points to win the major college scoring crown and two TD receptions to break the season record of 15. He has 111 points this season.

Other big games Saturday have Florida State at Florida, Georgia at Georgia Tech, Mississippi at Mississippi State, Vanderbilt at Tennessee, Baylor at Rice, Southern Methodist at Texas Christian Wyoming at Southern California, Boston College at Holy Cross and Notre Dame at Miami, Fla., at night.

NU Tops In Two Phases

New York (AP) — Michigan State's great defensive effort against Notre Dame not only solidified the Spartans' position among the nation' smajor college defense leaders, it shook up the offense standings as well.

State, the nation's leader in rushing defense and second-ranked in total defense, held Notre Dame to minus 12 yards running.

This effort removed Notre Dame as a threat to rushing leader Nebraska by dropping the Fighting Irish from second to ninth. Notre Dame's failure to score a touchdown against the Spartans dropped it from first to fifth in the scoring race. Nebraska now is the leader.

Statistics released Wednesday by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau showed that the Spartans' effort against Notre Dame's running was the finest by one major team against another in four years.

State's rushing allowance of just 45.6 yards a game this season also has been bettered only once in 18 years — Syracuse allowed opponents only 19.3 yards a game in 1959.

The statistics also revealed Tulsa leading in total offense and forward passing, Southern Mississippi first in total defense, Toledo first in pass defense and Texas No. 1 in punting.

Mike Garrett of Southern California has clinched the individual rushing crown with 1,328 yards in 243 carries and needs just 58 more yards against Wyoming Saturday to break Ollie Matson's career record of 3,166.

Tulsa's Howard Twilley has won the pass-receiving title with 115 catches. He must score four points against Colorado State Thursday to become the first end to win the scoring crown. He has 111 points to 114 for Syracuse's Floyd Little, who is through.

McAdams To Play For OU

. . . ALL SOONER CRIPPLES TO BE IN UNIFORM

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Carl McAdams, the key to Oklahoma's defense and an All-American candidate, arrived in Lincoln Wednesday afternoon as part of the 40-man Sooner traveling squad and Husker stock dropped about one notch.

McAdams, an inspirational leader as well as a top defender from his linebacker post, was on the doubtful list until Wednesday morning for today's 12:45 p.m. contest against Nebraska.

The Sooner linebacker was injured in the Iowa State game and has been undergoing treatment for the sore ankle since. He missed the Missouri game in which the Tigers rolled to a 30-0 win and hadn't worked out for 16 days until Tuesday.

Oklahoma coach Gomer Jones had McAdams test the ankle in Tuesday's drill, then after having trainers give the ankle two treatments Tuesday night and Wednesday morning McAdams boarded the chartered plane with his teammates.

Jones indicated Wednesday afternoon that McAdams likely would not start, but that he would be available for action, a prospect that caused creases in foreheads of Husker coaches.

Another Sooner who had been on the doubtful list was tailback Ben Hart. Hart also made the trip and is expected to start. He has been slowed by a bruised instep.

He is the Sooners' fourth leading rusher with 239 yards, has hit two of eight passes for 25 yards, has caught 12 passes for 115 yards and is also used on punt and kickoff returns.

Two other Oklahomans who are slowed by injuries are halfbacks Tommy Pannell and Ron Shotts, but both are expected to play.

The Sooners chief offensive threat is quarterback Gene Cagle, a sophomore who took over the signal-calling chores after Oklahoma lost its first three games.

Since then he has developed as the leading ball carrier with 320 yards on 76 carries and has completed 31 of 73 pass attempts for 355 yards. Cagle also leads in scoring with 24 points.

This year's Nebraska team will be trying to become the fifth Husker outfit to win three straight conference titles. The Huskers are assured of a tie with Missouri, but they need a win to claim the title all to themselves.

Only teams from Nebraska and Oklahoma have ever won more than two Big Eight titles in succession with Nebraska doing it four times and Oklahoma once, but the Oklahoma string was 12 straight.

Nebraska won four straight from 1914-17, three straight from 1921-23, three more from 1931-33, and three in a row from 1935-37.

The Huskers this year have found as many ways to win as you'll find in all the football books in the library. They have won with spectacular passing, long runs, defense and straight power football.

Coach Bob Devaney's crew has been able to give opponents fits with quarterbacks Fred Duda and Bob Churchich passing to ends Freeman White, Tony Jeter, and Dennis Richnafsky and to halfback Harry Wilson.

They have gotten lengthy runs from tiny fullback Frank Solich, who went 80 yards on the first play of the game for a TD against the Air Force.

And they have gotten stellar defensive play from the Black Shirts led by linebacker Mike Kennedy with All-American candidate Walt Barnes up front.

Nebraska has no incentive from a possible bowl bid. That was wrapped up two weeks ago with the Huskers meeting Alabama in Miami's Orange Bowl.

But they have the incentive of a chance at a third straight outright Big Eight title, an unbeaten season and the chance to show their wares before a national television audience—and in color.

Tulane's O'Boyle Resigns As Head Football Coach

New Orleans, La. (AP)—Tommy O'Boyle, who last weekend found himself in the very situation he said a man shouldn't get into, quit Wednesday as Tulane's head football coach after four losing seasons.

O'Boyle succeeded Any Pilney, who quit after the 1961 season when Louisiana State smashed Tulane 62-0.

Last Saturday Tulane closed out its 2-8 season by losing to LSU 62-0.

Rumors that Michelosen would resign or be fired circulated for more than a week before Pitt closed out its dismal 3-7 season last Saturday by edging Penn State.

Dunkel Gives NU 22-Point Margin

. . . NAVY BY FOUR

By DICK DUNKEL

Neither has set the world on fire, but they'll burn each other down next Saturday at Philadelphia, the underdog probably winning in a thriller.

Navy's record is 4-4-1, Army's 4-5.

Against common opponents, a stand-off: Navy tied Stanford, 7-7, but Army succumbed, 14-31. Versus Notre Dame Army held its loss to only 0-17 while Navy sank, 3-20.

Navy 87.7 (4) Army 83.5.

Supporting the almost traditional prospect of the underdog's winning, Army looked by far the stronger the last time out. The Cadets whaled a good Wyoming team, 13-0. Navy took its lumps, 6-14, from so-so Penn State.

The higher rating teams have won in 73.9% of the 1,695 games, excluding ties, covered here through last week. The Dunkel Index (average of scoring margin combined with opposition rating) shows the following comparisons in games of this week:

Omaha U Gains 9 Spots On CIC All-Star Squad

Topeka, Kan. (UPI)—Champion Omaha University landed nine players on the Central Intercollegiate Conference's all-star football team Wednesday including one two-way regular and four others on separate defensive and offensive units.

Indians named to the squad included end James Jones, chosen for both the offensive and defensive units; offensive interior linemen Harlan Aden and Dave Rak, and backs Marlin Briscoe and Gerald Allen; defensive linemen Larry Von Tersch and Bill Jansen; and backs Don Crum and Cal McGruder.

Briscoe and Von Tersch were unanimous choices.

Auburn In Liberty Bowl; Ole Miss Likely Opponent

Memphis, Tenn. (AP)—Auburn accepted Wednesday an invitation to play in the Liberty Bowl football game, and Mississippi—the bowl-goingest team of them all—shaped up as the odds-on choice to oppose the Plainsmen.

The game will be played Dec. 18 in the new 50,000-seat Memphis Memorial Stadium.

A. F. (Bud) Dudley, Liberty Bowl president, announced Auburn's acceptance at a news conference and dropped a broad hint that the other team would be Ole Miss.

John Michelosen Relieved After 10 Years With Pitt

Pittsburgh, Pa. (AP)—The University of Pittsburgh began Wednesday its search for a new head football coach after John Michelosen was relieved of the job he held for 10 years.

"We will begin working on finding a new man this afternoon," said Frank Carver, Pitt's director of athletics after announcing that Michelosen had been relieved as coach and offered another job at the university.

Rumors that Michelosen would resign or be fired circulated for more than a week before Pitt closed out its dismal 3-7 season last Saturday by edging Penn State.

Scott, Thorn Pep Pistons To Win

Hogs' Brittenum Given AP Back Of Week Award

Fayetteville, Ark. (AP)—Jon Brittenum was packing for a Thanksgiving trip when he learned that he had been named Coolege Football's Back of the Week by The Associated Press.

"I'm surprised," he said. "I never dreamed of it. It's unbelievable. I'm sure there were other people who deserved it a lot more than I did."

Brittenum completed 16 of 20 passes and ran for 25 key yards in Arkansas' 42-24 comeback victory over Texas Tech Saturday. The triumph gave the Razorbacks a second straight perfect season and earned them a Cotton Bowl berth.

Dunkel Gives NU 22-Point Margin

. . . NAVY BY FOUR

By DICK DUNKEL

It's the old familiar prospect for the Army-Navy football game:

Neither has set the world on fire, but they'll burn each other down next Saturday at Philadelphia, the underdog probably winning in a thriller.

Navy's record is 4-4-1, Army's 4-5.

Against common opponents, a stand-off; Navy tied Stanford, 7-7, but Army succumbed, 14-31. Versus Notre Dame Army held its loss to only 0-17 while Navy sank, 3-20.

Navy 87.7 (4) Army 83.5.

Supporting the almost traditional prospect of the underdog's winning, Army looked by far the stronger the last time out. The Cadets whaled a good Wyoming team, 13-0. Navy took its lumps, 6-14, from so-so Penn State.

The higher rating teams have won in 73.9% of the 1,695 games, excluding ties, covered here through last week. The Dunkel Index (average of scoring margin combined with opposition rating) shows the following comparisons in games of this week:

MSU's Harold Lucas AP Lineman Of Week

By Associated Press

Harold Lucas, a burly 286-pound middle guard, has played a leading role this season in making the unbeaten, untied Michigan State Spartans the No. 1 college football team in the country.

The 6-foot-2 senior from Detroit demonstrated his defensive ability last Saturday in State's 12-3 victory over Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind. and Wednesday was named the Lineman of the Week by the Associated Press.

Tulsa's Coach Dobbs Awarded 5-Year Contract

Tulsa, Okla. (AP) — Glenn Dobbs, University of Tulsa, football coach and athletic director, was given a new five-year contract Wednesday by the board of trustees.

Tulsa, 7-2 and a strong contender for a Bluebonnet Bowl berth opposite Tennessee, closes out its regular season Thursday against Colorado State University.

"Win, lose or draw, the trustees want Glenn to know how much they and the university community appreciate the work he and his staff have done," said university President Ben G. Henneke.

NU Loses Shot At Statistics Sweep

Kansas City, Mo.—That chance of sweeping all six of the Big Eight Conference's team statistical divisions has been lost for Nebraska again this year, another near miss for the Cornhuskers.

Last year the Nebraskans came within an eyelash of becoming the first Conference team to win all six in a single season. Oklahoma had one game left and needed the biggest rushing output of the season to displace the Cornhuskers as the ground kings. It happened, 347 yards worth.

This year, even though leading in four of the categories again this week—rushing and total offense and rushing and total defense—the Nebraskans cannot take away Iowa State's pass-defense title and have only a slim chance of getting the pass-offense lead.

Fourth in total defense with a 258.5 average, Iowa State has allowed only 821 aerial yards this season. After nine games, Nebraska, leader in total defense with 199.8 allowance, has surrendered 862 passing. This is second best.

The Cyclones, behind Tim Van Galder's 548 passing yards in the last two games, boomed to a 141.8 passing average, the best mark since Missouri had 176.2 in 1951. Nebraska, now third with a 118.1 mark, has 1.063, 355 in back of Iowa State.

No team, however, can catch the Huskers in any of the four other divisions, as they are destined to become the first team to gain over 4,000 total yards without getting at least 3,000 on the ground with their ball-hogging tactics.

Injury Hits CU Chances

(Fourth of a Series)
By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

One Big Eight basketball team, Colorado, may have been eliminated from title contention before the first balls are dribbled next Wednesday in season openers.

The Buffs, with already the smallest (in quantity) team in the league, suffered a blow to their championship hopes when veteran guard Pat Frink suffered a knee injury in a practice session.

"No one was close to him when the injury occurred," says coach Sox Walseth. "He just fell down. We don't know whether he will need an operation.

"It depends on whether the cartilage will heal without surgery." If surgery is needed, Frink would be lost for the season.

Walseth was hoping to build the Buffs' title aspirations around Frink, the leading scorer of a year ago with a 15.1 average, and center Chuck Gardner, a 6-7 senior who was No. 2 in scoring with an 11.5 mark.

Gardner developed rapidly as the season progressed last year, getting 230 of his 277 points after conference play opened for a 16.4 average in Big Eight games.

If Frink recovers from the knee injury, he would team with veteran Lynn Baker to give the Buffs one of the top backcourt tandems in the league.

Baker averaged 8.4 points per game and was a strong rebounder despite his 6-1 frame.

Without Frink, Walseth will have to choose from Karl Tait, who scored only 10 points in 13 games last year, or sophomore Chuck Williams for the other guard spot. However, the CU coach may decide to work one of his forwards into the back line.

Walseth also is shy of experience at forwards with sophomores, 6-8 Ted Erfert and 6-2 Mike Rebich, the leading candidates as the opening date with Texas Tech approaches next Wednesday.

Walseth sees the conference race as a tight affair — after Kansas. "Kansas has the best team going into the season and should be a solid favorite," he points out. "After that it looks like a real dogfight. Most everyone has a good team this year."

Record Entry Expected For Grapple Meet

Entry blanks are being mailed out this week for the fourth annual Great Plains AAU wrestling meet scheduled in Lincoln Dec. 10-11.

Meet promoter Newt Copple of Lincoln said Wednesday he expects between 250 and 275 entries for the two-day festivities, which would make this meet the biggest yet. Last year's field totaled a record 229 athletes.

Invitations are being sent to more than 20 teams, including perennial wrestling powers like Oklahoma State, Iowa, Colorado State University, St. Cloud, Minn., State, Kansas State, Wyoming and Colorado State College.

Wrestlers from the University of Nebraska, of course, and other state schools will be on hand at Pershing Auditorium.

Copple also announced that this year's meet will be conducted under Olympic rules. This is being done, he said, to prepare for the National AAU meet which will be staged at Pershing next April.

NU Loses Shot At Statistics Sweep

Kansas City, Mo.—That chance of sweeping all six of the Big Eight Conference's team statistical divisions has been lost for Nebraska again this year, another near miss for the Cornhuskers.

Last year the Nebraskans came within an eyelash of becoming the first Conference team to win all six in a single season. Oklahoma had one game left and needed the biggest rushing output of the season to displace the Cornhuskers as the ground kings. It happened, 347 yards worth.

This year, even though leading in four of the categories again this week—rushing and total offense and rushing and total defense—the Nebraskans cannot take away Iowa State's pass-defense title and have only a slim chance of getting the pass-offense lead.

Fourth in total defense with a 258.5 average, Iowa State has allowed only 821 aerial yards this season. After nine games, Nebraska, leader in total defense with 199.8 allowance, has surrendered 862 passing. This is second best.

The Cyclones, behind Tim Van Galder's 548 passing yards in the last two games, boomed to a 141.8 passing average, the best mark since Missouri had 176.2 in 1951. Nebraska, now third with a 118.1 mark, has 1,063, 355 in back of Iowa State.

No team, however, can catch the Huskers in any of the four other divisions, as they are destined to become the first team to gain over 4,000 total yards without getting at least 3,000 on the ground with their ball-hogging tactics.

Injury Hits CU Chances

(Fourth of a Series)
By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

One Big Eight basketball team, Colorado, may have been eliminated from title contention before the first balls are dribbled next Wednesday in season openers.

The Buffs, with already the smallest (in quantity) team in the league, suffered a blow to their championship hopes when veteran guard Pat Frink suffered a knee injury in a practice session.

"No one was close to him when the injury occurred," says coach Sox Walseth. "He just fell down. We don't know whether he will need an operation.

"It depends on whether the cartilage will heal without surgery." If surgery is needed, Frink would be lost for the season.

Walseth was hoping to build the Buffs' title aspirations around Frink, the leading scorer of a year ago with a 15.1 average, and center Chuck Gardner, a 6-7 senior who was No. 2 in scoring with an 11.5 mark.

Gardner developed rapidly as the season progressed last year, getting 230 of his 277 points after conference play opened for a 16.4 average in Big Eight games.

If Frink recovers from the knee injury, he would team with veteran Lynn Baker to give the Buffs one of the top backcourt tandems in the league.

Baker averaged 8.4 points per game and was a strong rebounder despite his 6-1 frame.

Without Frink, Walseth will have to choose from Karl Tait, who scored only 10 points in 13 games last year, or sophomore Chuck Williams for the other guard spot. However, the CU coach may decide to work one of his forwards into the back line.

Walseth also is shy of experience at forwards with sophomores, 6-8 Ted Erfert and 6-2 Mike Rebich, the leading candidates as the opening date with Texas Tech approaches next Wednesday.

Walseth sees the conference race as a tight affair — after Kansas. "Kansas has the best team going into the season and should be a solid favorite," he points out. "After that it looks like a real dogfight. Most everyone has a good team this year."

Record Entry Expected For Grapple Meet

Entry blanks are being mailed out this week for the fourth annual Great Plains AAU wrestling meet scheduled in Lincoln Dec. 10-11.

Meet promoter Newt Copple of Lincoln said Wednesday he expects between 250 and 275 entries for the two-day festivities, which would make this meet the biggest yet. Last year's field totaled a record 229 athletes.

Invitations are being sent to more than 20 teams, including perennial wrestling powers like Oklahoma State, Iowa, Colorado State University, St. Cloud, Minn., State, Kansas State, Wyoming and Colorado State College.

Wrestlers from the University of Nebraska, of course, and other state schools will be on hand at Pershing Auditorium.

Copple also announced that this year's meet will be conducted under Olympic rules. This is being done, he said, to prepare for the National AAU meet which will be staged at Pershing next April.

Dissent-Torn Union Approves McDonnell Pact

St. Louis, Mo. (AP)—Dissent-torn striking machinists at McDonnell Aircraft Corp. ratified a new contract Wednesday and agreed to return to their jobs producing Gemini spacecraft and jet fighter planes used in Viet Nam.

Mixed cheers and boos followed the announcement that the new contract had been accepted by a 6,087-to-2,841 vote. The tentative agreement had been reached early Wednesday in Washington.

Eugene Glover, vice president of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists and the head of the union negotiating team, had recommended the contract's acceptance.

Rebel Faction

But a leader of a rebel faction in the union, Bruce (Red) McCarthy, said he had voted against the pact. He said his faction would return to their jobs, but would continue their fight with union leaders.

McCarthy said he thought something was "fishy" about the vote total and said he would contest it. He said the turnstile total indicated only 9,311 persons were in the arena.

The arena holds 13,500 persons. It was nearly filled. Officials also said some ballots were voided because they were improperly marked.

Improvements

The contract provides for a 27-cent-an-hour increase over a three-year period. It also includes improvements of 40 job classifications, a better distribution of overtime, a modification of a no-strike clause, increased vacations, and better pension and sick leave benefits.

Glover told the machinists during the stormy meeting the union negotiating team had reached the proposed settlement under pressure from the federal government, the company and some union members.

He said Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, who participated with federal mediators in the talks, told the union team to make its own decision. But, Glover added, "behind the lines, we felt something else."

Taft-Hartley Threat

The union vice president told the strikers an unmentioned threat of invoking the Taft-Hartley Act loomed over the contract talks in Washington. If the law had been invoked, the government could have ordered the machinists back to work for an 80-day cooling-off period.

The meeting was disrupted several times—once for 10 minutes—by shouts from the floor of the St. Louis Arena. Several strikers yelled "No" when Glover called for a vote on the contract. Others cheered.

McCarthy, who failed to halt the talks by a state court order Wednesday, tried several times to reach the microphone, but was forced from the podium by union officials and policemen stationed at the arena. Later, he spoke, but could not be heard above the din.

Norris, Cedar-Knox District Extend Pact With NPPS

Norris Public Power District of Beatrice and the Cedar-Knox District at Hartington have approved an 8-year extension of their present contract with the Nebraska Public Power System.

The announcement was made jointly Wednesday by Cedar-Knox Manager Harold Martindale and Norris Manager Lester Trussell.

They estimated that signing of the new contracts, as approved by boards of directors of the two districts, would save Norris approximately $55,000 a year, and save Cedar-Knox about $30,000 a year.

"We have an obligation to supply our customers with power at the cheapest possible cost," they said. "We feel this can best be accomplished by working together within the framework of our public power agencies in Nebraska."

Martindale and Trussell noted that wholesale power costs have steadily decreased over the past 10 years, and a recent announcement by NPPS of a rate reduction from $1.73 to $1.50 per kilowatt makes the contract extension arrangement even more attractive.

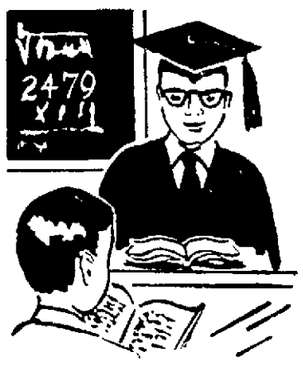
NASON ON EDUCATION:

New Tests May Create Problems

By DR. LESLIE J. NASON



Tests to determine the progress of education are being developed in cooperation with the U.S. Office of Education and the Carnegie Foundation.

The aim is laudable. We need to know whether or not we are making progress in the development of our schools.

However, if this attempt to assess the progress of education develops into a national testing program, it will create enormous pressures on school boards, school administrators, classroom teachers and, worst of all, for the children.

Comparisons are bound to be made. Schools where the majority of youngsters are of superior ability would show up well. Most of the students are college-bound and have experience in test-taking.

It would be unfair to force all schools into this pattern. In neighborhoods where children need more than the usual amount of practice in the use of English, the children are best served when less time is given to testing.

The assessment of the progress of education cannot be made through a single test of student proficiency. Each school must be judged on the progress of its pupils considering their particular backgrounds, goals and needs.

Progress in education should be judged on how well we provide equal opportunities for every child to gain an education comparable with his ability to accept it. Progress will be made in direct ratio to our increased understanding of how pupils learn and our ability to assist them in learning to learn.

We already have one nationwide test of our educational efficiency as to minimum desirable results. Testing of draftees for military service is a national testing program.

General Hershey, Director of Selective Service, states that during the last fiscal year 134,000 young men were rejected. Not all of the rejections were for lack of minimum competency in the three R's. Physical fitness and moral conduct played major roles.

However, health and good citizenship are stated goals of our educational system; consequently, the failure of so many young men to qualify for military service represents a primary failure of our schools.

Reasons for this failure are many and complex. However, it is certainly obvious that the schools which the rejects attended did not provide the type of training or, perhaps, the individual help that would have enabled these youngsters to succeed rather than fail.

Assessment of progress at the other end of the scale could be how well schools are meeting the demand for doctors, scientists, teachers, secretaries or mechanics and plumbers.

Disabled Vets Get Pay Hike

More than 12,850 Nebraska veterans with service-connected disabilities will receive higher compensation payments beginning in January, Charles S. J. Chubb, Veterans Administration regional office manager in Lincoln, said Wednesday.

The bill increasing compensation payments was signed into law by President Johnson Oct. 31.

Individual increases will range from $1 a month for those veterans adjudged to be 10% disabled, to $50 a month for those who are classified 100% disabled.

Attacks May Precede Peace

Washington (AP)—Some Asian diplomats here have suggested to the U.S. government that the furious pace of communist attacks in South Viet Nam could be the prelude to new peace overtures from Hanoi.

Informed sources making this known Wednesday noted that the communist offensives appear to be following the pattern of North Korean and Chinese Communist attacks in the Korean War some 15 years ago.

In the Korean case, fighting was heavily stepped up with seeming disregard to casualties in an effort to improve the communist bargaining position before peace overtures were made.

U.S. officials said they are aware of this possibility but said there have been no indications of any new peace feelers from Hanoi.

State Department officials now estimate that more than 10,000 North Vietnamese army regulars are fighting in South Viet Nam. This is in addition to the 70,000 to 80,000 "main force" communist troops of the North Vietnamese army.

The State Department tended to brush off as "not significant" the reported evacuation of Chinese civilians from Canton and other Chinese cities near the North Viet Nam border.

Press Officer Robert J. McCloskey said there have been reports of the evacuation of some civilian population in southern cities for some time over the past several months.

McCloskey said, "It does not seem new or significant."

However, Chinese Communist broadcasts monitored here emphasize this theme. "We must seriously guard against the scheme of U.S. imperialism to spread the war to China by getting ready at all times to fight any type of aggressive war which might be touched off by U.S. imperialism."

U.S. Protest Rejected

Geneva (AP) — The National Liberation Front of Viet Nam, political arm of the Viet Cong, has formally rejected a U.S. protest against the execution of American prisoners, the International Red Cross Committee announced.

Murray (The Camel) Humphreys, reputed political fixer for the Chicago crime syndicate from the gangland days of Al Capone, died in his apartment. Humphreys, 66, earlier pointed a pistol at federal agents who burst into his Marina City apartment when he refused to open the door. They arrested him on a federal perjury indictment. He appeared to have suffered a heart attack.

Engineer Charged With Anti-Red Bomb Spree

Miami, Fla. (AP)—A 31-year-old electronics engineer was arrested Wednesday and charged with dropping fire bombs on five homes from a rented airplane as part of an "anticommunist crusade."

"The purpose of the bombings was to scare local communist agitators and to discourage full-scale riots such as those in Los Angeles, New York and Philadelphia," said the engineer, Lon David Shaw.

Police said Shaw made the flights at night during the past year, beginning in December 1964. He threw the simple but ingenious bombs on both Negro and white neighborhoods from the planes' open window, police said. He did not aim at any particular individuals, police said.

Shaw, a bachelor, said he was not a member of any group advocating action against communists. Police declined comment when asked if other arrests would be made.

"Shaw's against everybody, the communists, the Jews, the Negroes," Det. Sgt. Dave Helman said.

Helman would not describe the bomb Shaw invented. "He's an engineer and could make any kind he wanted to," Helman said. "This bomb's so simple that any 5-year-old could make it. That's why we won't say how it is made."

West Berliners' Christmas Trips East Approved Again

Berlin (UPI)—The West German cabinet Wednesday approved an agreement reached with the East Germans to allow West Berliners to visit their East Berlin relatives during the Christmas season.

The action promised a Merry Christmas to the 800,000 West Berliners who are divided by the wall from family members in the Soviet sector of the city.

But their joy was clouded by the prospect of long waits in snow and bitter cold to apply for the pass and then pick them up.

"It is not too high a price but it seems ridiculous to have to go through such a fuss to see my mother who lives only four miles away," said Giesela Vogt, 27-year-old salesgirl.

The agreement reached by East German and West Berlin negotiators in talks that have dragged on since June covered visits by West Berliners only.

The wall still barred eastern residents from traveling west as it has since it went up Aug. 13, 1961.

It will be the third Christmas since the wall went up that West Berliners will be able to pass through it for family reunions.

Insurance Firm Must Liquidate

. . . Says Judge

Omaha (AP)—District Judge Paul J. Garrotto Wednesday ordered liquidation of the United Benefit and Fire Insurance Company of Omaha.

The ruling upholds a motion by the State Insurance Department for liquidation and rejected the plea of the company's attorney, John Binning of Lincoln, that the firm be returned to its owners and be allowed to rehabilitate itself.

State insurance commissioner Frank J. Barrett said his department hopes that someone will take over the company, but if no one is interested the department will proceed to cancel off all policies.

United Benefit Fire has been declared insolvent by Judge Garrotto and its operations turned over to the Insurance Department. The company has some 20,000 casualty insurance policies and a large number of surety bonds in effect in Nebraska.

Binning reviewed a two-point proposal involving bonds of some $800,000 and cash and real estate worth more than $1 million which would be used as assets "to rehabilitate the company."

He said the company can resume operations if the court grants its request.

The Insurance Deaprtment, however, contended the company should be liquidated and questioned whether the additional assets "would be enough to repair the company."

Judge Garrotto asked the department's attorney, Bernard Wishnow, if the firm can operate and the lawyer replied: "It cannot at this time."

"Would policy holders have any coverage?" the judge asked. Wishnow said they remain insured but the company cannot pay its unearned premiums and claims against it.

Contest Among Omaha Architects For Center OKd

Omaha (AP)—The Omaha City Council has rejected a proposal for a national architectural contest for plans for a new government center and will instead have a contest among Omaha architects.

The council unanimously joined Mayor A. V. Sorensen in rejecting the proposal of the Omaha Planning Board and substituted a plan to ask Omaha architects by Dec. 14 to submit written statements of their qualifications to design a civic center.

Then, before a sketch is submitted, the city and Douglas County will eliminate all but six or eight firms which will then present preliminary designs. The firm with the best design, in the opinion of council and county board members, will be chosen architect.

Cole Invited To Silo Symposium

Chicago—A University of Nebraska dairy specialist is among 13 representatives of U.S. Land Grand universities who have been invited by the National Silo Association to review research findings here.

P. H. Cole, Extension dairyman at the NU College of Agriculture and Home Economics, will attend a silo and silage symposium prior to the association's annual convention Nov. 29-30. He will explain to the association the objectives of four silage projects now under way at NU, with the dairy science and animal science departments each conducting two studies.

$6,000 Damage In Lumber Yard Fire

Elkhorn (AP)—A fire at the Elkhorn Lumber Yards was extinguished early Wednesday. Firemen from Waterloo and Valley joined Elkhorn fire fighters in containing the blaze.

Damage in the blaze was estimated at $6,000. The sheriff's office said the flames apparently started in a saw shed.

Insurance Firm Must Liquidate

. . . Says Judge

Omaha (AP)—District Judge Paul J. Garrotto Wednesday ordered liquidation of the United Benefit and Fire Insurance Company of Omaha.

The ruling upholds a motion by the State Insurance Department for liquidation and rejected the plea of the company's attorney, John Binning of Lincoln, that the firm be returned to its owners and be allowed to rehabilitate itself.

State insurance commissioner Frank J. Barrett said his department hopes that someone will take over the company, but if no one is interested the department will proceed to cancel off all policies.

United Benefit Fire has been declared insolvent by Judge Garrotto and its operations turned over to the Insurance Department. The company has some 20,000 casualty insurance policies and a large number of surety bonds in effect in Nebraska.

Binning reviewed a two-point proposal involving bonds of some $800,000 and cash and real estate worth more than $1 million which would be used as assets "to rehabilitate the company."

He said the company can resume operations if the court grants its request.

The Insurance Deaprtment, however, contended the company should be liquidated and questioned whether the additional assets "would be enough to repair the company."

Judge Garrotto asked the department's attorney, Bernard Wishnow, if the firm can operate and the lawyer replied: "It cannot at this time."

"Would policy holders have any coverage?" the judge asked. Wishnow said they remain insured but the company cannot pay its unearned premiums and claims against it.

Contest Among Omaha Architects For Center OKd

Omaha (AP)—The Omaha City Council has rejected a proposal for a national architectural contest for plans for a new government center and will instead have a contest among Omaha architects.

The council unanimously joined Mayor A. V. Sorensen in rejecting the proposal of the Omaha Planning Board and substituted a plan to ask Omaha architects by Dec. 14 to submit written statements of their qualifications to design a civic center.

Then, before a sketch is submitted, the city and Douglas County will eliminate all but six or eight firms which will then present preliminary designs. The firm with the best design, in the opinion of council and county board members, will be chosen architect.

Act Hinders State Billboard Removal

. . . SAYS REP. REUSS

Washington (UPI) — Rep. Henry S Reuss, D-Wis., complained Wednesday that state efforts to remove billboards from highways are being hindered by what he called misinterpretation of the new highway beautification act.

At issue is a section Congress wrote into the law requiring states to compensate billboard and property owners for removal of road signs "lawfully in existence" when the act was passed Oct. 22.

Reuss said 20 states, including Wisconsin, have been removing road signs, declared illegal under state law, without compensating the owners.

"Unwilling to risk the possible loss of 10% of its federal highway aid, Wisconsin has halted its program," Reuss said. "Other states are reportedly in a similar situation."

Reuss wrote the Commerce Department's Bureau of Public Roads asking for immediate action to permit Wisconsin and other states to resume their own billboard clearance programs.

A spokesman for the bureau said the matter is under legal study with a view to issuing a clarifying memorandum to the states. The problem, he indicated, lies in determining the definition of a "lawful" billboard under differing state laws.

Eight Accused Of Taking $2.1 Million

Sioux Falls, S.D. (UPI) — Eight businessmen were indicted Wednesday on charges of embezzling $2.1 million from an investment corporation.

The Circuit Court Grand Jury returned 39 indictments, about half of them against one man, John Nelson of Sioux Falls.

Those indicted with Nelson were Vernon Rude of Brookings, S.D., Lester Flake of Sioux Falls, Ivil Lookabill of Wood, S.D., Adolph Preheim of Freeman, S.D., John Verhoef of Marion, S.D., Chan Duncan of Egan, S.D., and William Dilworth of Los Angeles, Calif.

All but Dilworth were charged with conspiracy, all but Dilworth and Verhoef with criminal contempt of court, and all but Dilworth with malfeasance in corporate affairs. Nelson was charged individually with falsifying company records.

Nelson was arraigned Wednesday before Circuit Judge Roy Burns and given until Dec. 6 to plead. Asst. Atty. Gen. L.A. Weisensee said he expected the others to be arraigned next week.

Explosion Kills Five

Keokuk, Iowa (AP)—A Thanksgiving eve explosion and fire engulfed a National Guard Armory Wednesday night during a carefree square dance. Hospitals reported at least five dead.

"People were coming out on fire," said Mrs. Jerry Strickler who lives near the armory. "They were yelling for help."

Graham Hospital reported it had five dead and 25 injured persons admitted. St. Joseph Hospital said it admitted 15 persons.

There were fears that an undetermined number of children whose parents were taking part in the Swing Easey Club' square dance night were trapped in the basement.

He said it was not immediately known what set off the gas.

Man, 75, Dies At Auditorium Wrestling Bouts

Ray Powell, 75, of 1720 Garfield died while watching wrestling matches at Pershing auditorium Wednesday night.

Authorities said the man apparently suffered a heart attack.

Firemen were called and administered artificial respiration and resuscitation but the man was pronounced dead on arrival at a Lincoln hospital.

'Depth Study' Of Burlington Service Set

The president of the Burlington Railroad, Louis Menk of Chicago, said Wednesday a depth study of the system's passenger service business will start Dec. 1 and may take about a year.

"But we won't wait until this is finished if we determine some service should be removed," he said.

But he said it does not take a study to determine that the California Zephyr and the Denver Zephyr are money-making trains in no danger of elimination.

Menk said he hopes an expansion of the "hump" car sorting facility in Lincoln can be accomplished in 1966.

Menk, who took over the Burlington post two months ago, was in Lincoln to meet business and civic leaders.

Act Hinders State Billboard Removal

. . . SAYS REP. REUSS

Washington (UPI) — Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., complained Wednesday that state efforts to remove billboards from highways are being hindered by what he called misinterpretation of the new highway beautification act.

At issue is a section Congress wrote into the law requiring states to compensate billboard and property owners for removal of road signs "lawfully in existence" when the act was passed Oct. 22.

Reuss said 20 states, including Wisconsin, have been removing road signs, declared illegal under state law, without compensating the owners.

"Unwilling to risk the possible loss of 10% of its federal highway aid, Wisconsin has halted its program," Reuss said. "Other states are reportedly in a similar situation."

Reuss wrote the Commerce Department's Bureau of Public Roads asking for immediate action to permit Wisconsin and other states to resume their own billboard clearance programs.

A spokesman for the bureau said the matter is under legal study with a view to issuing a clarifying memorandum to the states. The problem, he indicated, lies in determining the definition of a "lawful" billboard under differing state laws.

Eight Accused Of Taking $2.1 Million

Sioux Falls, S.D. (UPI) — Eight businessmen were indicted Wednesday on charges of embezzling $2.1 million from an investment corporation.

The Circuit Court Grand Jury returned 39 indictments, about half of them against one man, John Nelson of Sioux Falls.

Those indicted with Nelson were Vernon Rude of Brookings, S.D., Lester Flake of Sioux Falls, Ivil Lookabill of Wood, S.D., Adolph Preheim of Freeman, S.D., John Verhoef of Marion, S.D., Chan Duncan of Egan, S.D., and William Dilworth of Los Angeles, Calif.

All but Dilworth were charged with conspiracy, all but Dilworth and Verhoef with criminal contempt of court, and all but Dilworth with malfeasance in corporate affairs. Nelson was charged individually with falsifying company records.

All eight men are officers or ex-officers of Commonwealth Investment or its subsidiaries.

Nelson was arraigned Wednesday before Circuit Judge Roy Burns and given until Dec. 6 to plead. Asst. Atty. Gen. L.A. Weisensee said he expected the others to be arraigned next week.

Explosion Kills Five

Keokuk, Iowa (AP)—A Thanksgiving eve explosion and fire engulfed a National Guard Armory Wednesday night during a carefree square dance. Hospitals reported at least five dead.

"People were coming out on fire," said Mrs. Jerry Strickler who lives near the armory. "They were yelling for help."

Graham Hospital reported it had five dead and 25 injured persons admitted. St. Joseph Hospital said it admitted 15 persons.

There were fears that an undetermined number of children whose parents were taking part in the Swing Easey Club' square dance night were trapped in the basement.

Fire Chief John Breheney said the explosion definitely was caused by gas. The armory is heated by natural gas.

He said it was not immediately known what set off the gas.

Man, 75, Dies At Auditorium Wrestling Bouts

Ray Powell, 75, of 1720 Garfield died while watching wrestling matches at Pershing auditorium Wednesday night.

Authorities said the man apparently suffered a heart attack.

Firemen were called and administered artificial respiration and resuscitation but the man was pronounced dead on arrival at a Lincoln hospital.

'Depth Study' Of Burlington Service Set

The president of the Burlington Railroad, Louis Menk of Chicago, said Wednesday a depth study of the system's passenger service business will start Dec. 1 and may take about a year.

"But we won't wait until this is finished if we determine some service should be removed," he said.

Menk said it appears some Burlington branch lines are not needed and are losing money for the railroad.

But he said it does not take a study to determine that the California Zephyr and the Denver Zephyr are money-making trains in no danger of elimination.

Menk said he hopes an expansion of the "hump," car sorting facility in Lincoln, can be accomplished in 1966.

Menk, who took over the Burlington post two months ago, was in Lincoln to meet business and civic leaders.

We went around the supermarkets and eased the turkeys the other day We really should make a national bird of this ma fowl Few moppets have ever seen an eagle But we all have a gratifying personal experience with the turkey

The turkey is highly mechanized these super days

White meat has been added —he's been pumped up in the chest like a topless dancer. He can be had frozen, prestuffed. Roasting instructions are printed on his cellophane wrapper.

Take off the cellophane Put the bird in the oven That's all there is to it And more's the pity for it seems to me they've taken a lot of the "turkey" out of the noble gobbler

At one time turkeys came naturally. Before Thanksgiving, they hung in the market by a string tied to their feet

They were feathered and had red wattles and a yellow beak

We brought them home in a newspaper with the legs sticking out

The turkey was stripped of his feathers, cleaned and singed over a gas burner ("Drat it," said my grandma, "I can't get the pin feathers out")

My grandfather punched his breast and allowed he'd seen fatter birds. But the whole world was going to Hades in a handbasket he said, when they put a Democrat in the White House.

I inherited the turkey feathers. Whoopee! Indians!

By this time we all had a personal encounter with the turkey and a certain togetherness

Grandma said come right in and get warm And, pshaw, she said you couldn't get a real decent turkey from a market But she'd done her best

Grandpa said the farmers had better wake up and get a sound Rpublican in the White House or we'd all be headed for the poorhouse. He didn't care if Mr. Wilson had "kept us out of war."

He said he was thankful this day that we had a few conservatives left in Congress.

The ladies went to the kitchen They took the cover off the turkey and basted it They told grandma, 'Land's sakes Mattie, you surely do cook well"

"Injun on warpath! Paleface beware!"

We have an excellent turkey this year He is bronze and broad-breasted We could trace his ancestors farther than I can trace mine He was that highly bred.

He was not frozen nor prestuffed—that I cannot take. I've got to have some personal contact with the bird besides just eating it.

I got out a picture of a real turkey and showed it to the kids

Yes we had a sort of togetherness with the turkey of yesteryear The elegant bird that came with feathers to singe off Oh given to small boys to play Indian

When this turkey came to the table, golden brown and steaming hot we'd all had a hand in it

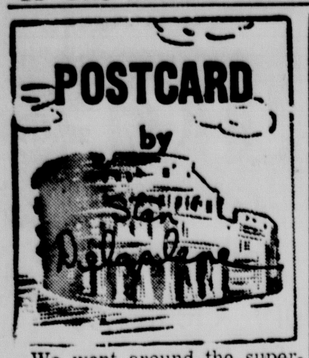
GOLD'S DOWNSTAIRS BUDGET STORE



We went around the supermarkets and cased the turkeys the other day. We really should make a national bird of this fine fowl. Few moppets have ever seen an eagle. But we all have a gratifying, personal experience with the turkey.

The turkey is highly mechanized these super days.

White meat has been added—he's been pumped up in the chest like a topless dancer. He can be had frozen, prestuffed. Roasting instructions are printed on his cellophane wrapper.

Take off the cellophane. Put the bird in the oven. That's all there is to it. And more's the pity, for it seems to me they've taken a lot of the "turkey" out of the noble gobbler.

At one time turkeys came naturally. Before Thanksgiving, they hung in the market by a string tied to their feet.

They were feathered and had red wattles and a yellow beak.

We brought them home in a newspaper with the legs sticking out.

The turkey was stripped of his feathers, cleaned and singed over a gas burner. ("Drat it," said my grandma, "I can't get the pin feathers out.")

My grandfather punched his breast and allowed he'd seen fatter birds. But the whole world was going to Hades in a handbasket he said, when they put a Democrat in the White House.

By this time, we all had a personal encounter with the turkey and a certain togetherness.

While members of the family came in—"coldest November I've seen," they said, shaking the snow off. "Whatever you've got in the oven certainly smells good!"

Grandma said come right in and get warm. And, pshaw, she said, you couldn't get a real decent turkey from a market. But she'd done her best.

Grandpa said the farmers had better wake up and get a sound Rpublican in the White House or we'd all be headed for the poorhouse. He didn't care if Mr. Wilson had "kept us out of war."

He said he was thankful this day that we had a few conservatives left in Congress.

The ladies went to the kitchen. They took the cover off the turkey and basted it. They told grandma, "Land's sakes, Mattie, you surely do cook well."

We have an excellent turkey this year. He is bronze and broad-breasted. We could trace his ancestors farther than I can trace mine. He was that highly bred.

He was not frozen nor prestuffed—that I cannot take. I've got to have some personal contact with the bird besides just eating it.

Yes, we had a sort of togetherness with the turkey of yesteryear. The elegant bird that came with feathers to singe off. Or given to small boys to play Indian.

When this turkey came to the table, golden brown and steaming hot, we'd all had a hand in it.
